WATCHMAN FELLED BY FIREBUG

An attempt was made to burn the Brookline Country Club early today, and the night watchman, Michael McLoughlin, who discovered the fire, was knocked unconscious by the incendiary, according to the story he told the police after being revived today.

The fire did little damage. Oil or gasoline was apparently poured on the wall of the clubhouse and then set afire. The floor and clapboards were scorched, but not burned through.

McLoughlin, a temporary watchman at the clubhouse, was cleaning off the side piazza at a little before daylight, when he saw the reflection of the flames.

He ran around the building, saw the fire, telephoned the fire department, then turned an extinguisher on the blaze. Just then he saw some one skulking on the lawn behind him, and turned and threw the extinguisher at this man. He then ran into the house for the other extinguisher, and as he came out the man struck him a blow on the side of the head that rendered him unconscious.

Superintendent Wars and employes of the club, sleeping in the clubhouse, heard McLoughlin's cry and rushed out. They found him unconscious on the lawn. He was revided, treated by Dr. George Francis, told his story, and was ordered to bed.

Chief George H. Johnson of the Fire Department responded in person to the alarm. When he learned the incendiary nature of the fire he telephoned the police, and a sergeant and a squad of men were sent to search the neighborhood for McLoughlin's assailant.

They kept up the search till 9:30, without result.

One description of the man sought had it that he was between eighteen and twenty years old and wore green trousers.

It was said he was a discharged employe.

The State police were expected to take an early hand in the investigation of the case.

There have been other incendiary fires in the neighborhood before this. The Philip Stockton house, on the club grounds, was destroyed by an incendiary fire some months ago.

MISS BLODGETT, BRIDE TODAY IN LINCOLN WEDDING

Mrs. Thomas E. Sherwin, (Emily Blodgett) who was married at her home in Lincoln today. Photograph by Garo.

Emily Blodgett of Lincoln and Thomas E. Sherwin of No. 150 Commonwealth avenue were married today at the home of the bride's father, William A. Blodgett, at Lincoln.

Sherwin is the son of the late Thomas E. Sherwin. Because the Sherwin family is in mourning, the wedding was very simple, being attended only by relatives and intimate friends of the bride and bridegroom.

The Rev. Henry C. Cunningham of Boston, formerly rector of St. Anne's Episcopal Church of Lincoln, performed the ceremony. The best man was R. W. Sherwin, brother of the bridegroom. Margaret Blodgett attended Miss Blodgett.

An informal luncheon was served after the ceremony.

Miss Blodgett is a graduate of Bryn Mawr. Sherwin was graduated from Harvard in 1884, and is a member of the Harvard Gun, Harvard New York, Tennis and Racquet and Dedham Country Clubs. He is a director in many mining companies.

Code Message Says Zeppelins Killed 300

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The New Yorker Herold yesterday published the following:

"An apparently perfectly harmless code dispatch reached New York yesterday saying that red silk ties in London have gone down 300. It is said that the dispatch means in reality that the Zeppelins killed 300 persons in London."

Slight Blaze at the Quincy House

Grease in a ventilating flue on the Seattle street side of the Quincy House caught fire today, causing a damage estimated at $10. Streams of water from two hose handled by Sole Aaron, a retired fireman, and the house fire brigade put out the fire before the arrival of the city apparatus. There was no excitement among the guests.

TANGLE OF LOVE IN KILLING

PROVIDENCE, Sept 15.—Judge Willis S. Knowles, who was slain on Labor Day from ambush near his home in Seituate, was engaged to three women at the same time.

He had promised to marry Miss Mabel Bowen, thirty-five, living at No. 79 Ontario street, a fashionable dressmaker with modiste parlors No. 133 Mathewson street, Providence; Miss Louise Bowen, thirty-eight, living in West Greenwich, a suburb of Providence employed as clerk in the insurance commissioner's office at the State House, grand niece of the late General Charles R. Brayton, the "blind boss" of Rhode Island; Mrs. Cora E. Wardwell, forty-two, employed as his housekeeper, ten years; divorced wife of Harry A. Wardwell of East Cambridge, Mass.

The heart affairs of the murdered judge have overshadowed for the time being the mystery of his death in a lonely stretch of roadway within hailing distance of his Summer home while on his way to open court.

His three fiances were dumfounded to hear of rivals. Each supposed she was the only one claiming his affections. They say he told them so. Each believed him. His death was a shock to them, but his duplicity hurt them even more. They simply cannot account for it, they say.

Mrs. Wardwell, while under a third degree examination, indignantly disputed Chief Inspector O'Neil's assertion that the Judge was engaged to another young woman in Providence.

"I don't believe it," said Mrs. Wardwell. "If the woman stood here now and told me he told it, I wouldn't believe it. The judge told me he loved me and I told him I loved him. He promised to marry me, but we kept putting it off from year to year."

Miss Louise Bowen, when seen at the State House, exclaimed: "I can't believe it. The judge was too big and manly and noble for such deception. His biggest fight in life was against the very things which they are now heaping on his memory. He neglected his business to visit me constantly while I was a patient at the Hope Hospital. I was there five months and he came every day."

Miss Bowen, the dressmaker, the youngest and comeliest of the three, isn't doing any talking. Intimates of the judge say he made no secret of the fact that he was fonder of Miss Bowen than any other woman, and that he was most anxious to make her his wife. Miss Bowen, on the other hand, had made Judge Knowles toe the mark. Without knowing his relations with Mrs. Wardwell, the housekeeper, Miss Bowen did not like the appearance of a bachelor living with a divorced

High Bid for City's $3,500,000 Bonds

A joint bid by Esterbrook & Company and R. L. Day & Company was the highest for the new $3,500,000 city of Boston bonds, the bids being opened today by City Treasurer Slattery. The bid was $101.450 for each $1000 of the issue. Another bid was for $1007.39 for each $1000, the bidders being headed by Blodgett & Company and including M. W. Harris & Company, Merrill, Oldham & Company, Curtis and Sanger and Blake Bros. & Company.

From high German sources it was learned that no protest would be made by that government against the loan.

ENORMOUS BRITISH WAR COST

By PERCY THOMAS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The cost of carrying on the war against Germany has risen to $21,000,000 a day. Official announcement to this effect was made in Parliament today by Premier Asquith.

Premier Asquith made an important statement in the House of Commons upon the war situation in Great Britain, in which he admitted that for, three weeks the recruiting figures was regarded as extremely significant in view of the possibility of conscription.

The Premier moved a new vote of credit, which, taken with the credits already voted, amounts to $6,310,900,000 in the aggregate.

PRAISE FOR RUSSIANS.

Discussing the situation in the theatres of war, Premier Asquith declared that the allies' positions in Belgium and France have been greatly strengthened and that reinforcements have been sent to the Dardanelles to be held in another great effort to force open the way to Constantinople.

High praise was given the Russians for their ability to retreat with an unbroken front before the advance of the Teutonic legions. Premier Asquith did not give way to exaggerated optimism. On the contrary, he said:

"Victory will very likely incline to the side that can arm itself the best and which can stay the longest, and that is what we propose to do. We have vastly exceeded any standard dreamed of before the war began, and as the war has gone on that standard has been raised."

Long before the hour for convening today's session of Parliament huge crowds had gathered in the Parliament building, being drawn to the scene of this historic sitting by the announcement that Premier Asquith and Lord Kitchener, the war secretary, would make important statements on the financial feature and conduct of the war.

There was a strong sprinkling of khaki not only among the members, but in the spectators' galleries, for many officers at home on furlough were in attendance.

Skilfully hidden guns have been planted on the roofs of buildings in Parliament square to guard against attacks by Zeppelins.

DIVIDE ON CONSCRIPTION.

That the subject of compulsory service is under consideration by the cabinet is now officially known, but no great is the opposition to it that there are now widely spread reports that the government will decide upon a scheme of "modified conscription."

Influential newspapers are divided upon the subject of conscription, some vigorously opposing it and others defending it so strongly as to give the belief that the hope of the empire depends upon it.

Another subject of deep public interest which will probably loom up in the House shortly will be the government's reticence concerning Zeppelin and submarine operations of the Germans. There are many persons who are bitterly opposed to the policy of silence and who believe that a policy of frankness would be of more benefit to the government than its present method of news suppression.

Villagers Flee in Terror of Vesuvius

NAPLES, Sept. 15.—Inhabitants of villages around Mount Vesuvius are fleeing in terror today as the result of the eruption of that volcano. Great streams of lava are pouring down its side and terrific explosions frequently occurring throw dense volumes of smoke and red and yellow flames above its summit. The fleeing inhabitants are flocking to churches and shrines, where prayers are being offered.

Report Berlin Discredits U. S. Strike Plots

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—According to the following item given out by the Overseas News Bureau today, the government discredits attempts to cripple manufacturing plants in the United States that are making supplies for the allies:

"Recently arrived German newspaper from the United States contain the text of a pamphlet advising the destruction of American factories that are making munitions of war.

"Such a practice is officially designated as stupid and dangerous. This agitation is evidently fostered by hot-headed private citizens who are misled, and not by any newspapers."

Italian Censor Holds Up Letters from the Pope

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—That the Italian censor is holding communications addressed by Pope Benedict to officials of the Roman Catholic Church in Germany was announced today by the Overseas News Agency.

It is stated that two letters from the Vatican to Monsignor Fruewirth, the papal nuncio to Bavaria at Munich, were never received.

The first related to the appointment of an archbishop at Posen; the second to affairs of the archbishop at Breslau.

Billion-Dollar Loan Protested to White House

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Several protests have been received at the White House against the permitting of the billion-dollar loan wanted by the allies in this country, it was admitted today.

Most of the messages, it was stated, came from the Middle West. It was intimated that the administration will not take any action in the matter.

As long as the loan is intended to pay for goods to be exported from this country, it was pointed out that the country's neutrality is not being violated.

Dumba to Sail Within a Week

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Ambassador and Mme. Dumba will sail from New York for Vienna within the next week, according to unofficial information reaching the State Department. No arrangements have been made for a safe conduct, and it was not believed today that any would be necessary. The ambassador is more than sixty years old and the limit under which enemy aliens are detained in the various warring countries was said here today to be fifty-five.

Norwegian Steamer Sunk by Submarine

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 15.—The Norwegian schooner Norie, bound from Christiania to England with timber, has been sunk in the North Sea off the Maze, Norway, by a German submarine. Her crew of eight was landed today by a Swedish steamship.

FORECAST.

Today's weather forecast: For Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight; Thursday fair; somewhat cooler; moderate southwest winds.

Today broke more heat-wave records in Boston, even while the weather man was promising "somwhat cooler" weather for tomorrow.

Prostrations were reported before the noon hour.

All the Boston public school pupils, more than 115,000 of them, were dismissed at midday. This is the first time this has been done by the Boston School Department. Many suburban schools were closed.

All records for heat on September 15 in the history of the local weather station went by the board when today's temperature reached 93 degrees at 11 a. m. Previous records for the date were 88 degrees maximum in 1877 and 1902.

The 11 o'clock temperature of 89 today was on even hour ahead of that of yesterday, which was 89 degrees at noon. Yesterday broke all heat records for this year in Boston with a maximum of 92 at 2 p. m.

From 89 at 11 o'clock, today's temperature jumped to 92 at 1 o'clock, and was still climbing. This tied yesterday's wilting mark and had two hours more of early afternoon to go.

PROSTRATIONS LOOKED FOR.

Since yesterday brought one death and six prostrations from heat, the health authorities and physicians, nurses and hospital staffs looked for more today.

The strain of yesterday's heat and its lowering of the general vitality made humanity less able to stand the continued high temperature.

The humidity was 78 at 8 a. m., or nine per cent. above normal. This was slightly lower than yesterday.

The wholesale closing of the public schools showed more than anything else the serious attention given by the public authorities to the heat situation.

Orders for this were issued from the Mason-street headquarters of the school department before 10 o'clock. A dozen telephone operators were kept busy transmitting the order to principals.

SCHOOLS CLOSED.

Primary and grammar school pupils were dismissed at 11 o'clock; high school pupils at noon. Teachers were instructed not to assign any home lessons, in order that the boys

GIRL DIES FROM AUTO CRASH FIRE

Mrs. Agnes Corning is dead and Percival McNeal is on the dangerous list at the Lynn Hospital today as the result of being showered with burning gasoline when the jitney in which they and seven others were riding collided with the rear of another automobile and punctured the gasoline tank, on Wilson road, Little Nahant.

Walter Stanley, driver of the jitney, was also seriously burned. Others in the jitney bus were bruised and shaken up by the collision, but not seriously enough to require medical treatment. The occupants of the other auto escaped injury.

The accident occurred near the terminus of the Wilson road. A big touring car, with its gas tank hung over the rear axle, and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vaughn, Mrs. O. D. Savory, Mrs. Vaughn's mother, and Richard, Helen and Fred Vaughn, all of No. 10 Berry street, Danvers, suddenly slowed up.

The public auto had been following the Vaughn car close in its rear. When the Vaughn car slowed up, Stanley, driving the jitney, was unable to check the speed of his car before it crashed into the other. A front spring of the jitney ripped open the gas tank of the Vaughn car. The pressure spurted gasoline into the jitney, enveloping Stanley, McNeal, and Mrs. Corning. Mrs. Corning was hurled over the dash of the jitney, directly through the gasoline flames.

SLAIN JUDGE BEQUEATHED HIS RURAL HOME TO HOUSEKEEPER

woman. She had reprimanded the judge on this score and had returned presents, it is said.

LIST OF WOMEN GROWS.

Women figure prominently in Judge Knowles' private life. Every hour reveals some new entanglement. His list of women friends is constantly growing. Revelations show that he was extremely popular with the opposite sex. But only three engagements are know to date. In the background there is the story, early investigated by the police, of the pretty country girl, who used to write endearing letters to him by the score, and attend his court sessions and walk up and down in front of his home waiting a chance to speak to him. This young girl annoyed the judge so much that he got his former law partner, Attorney John I. Devlin, to caution her by letter to cease her writing and attentions.

Other instances are mentioned in town gossip. It is no exaggeration to state that the judge, because of his good looks and his worldly possessions, was considered the star catch of that section.

PROPERTY FOR HOUSEKEEPER.

In spite of the judge's known attentions to other young women, his long friendship with Mrs. Wardwell, his housekeeper, caused him to provide for her generously in his will. He bequeathed to Mrs. Wardwell the country estate where he lost his life and left the rest of his property to his two brothers, Horace G. and Benjamin H. Knowles, prosperous real estate brokers of New York.

Mrs. Wardwell falls heir to a very desirable home. The location is picturesque. The small white house and barn are on a hill, overlooking Lake Moswansicut. The estate embraces eighty-five acres and is situated on a line between the townships of Scituate and Johnston, about eight miles from Providence.

BELIEVED IN JUDGE.

Miss Louise Bowen expressed her sentiments in no uncertain terms while seated on a pile of record books in an annex of the Insurance Commissioner's office of the State House. She said:

"I shall not believe anything derogatory about Judge Knowles. I knew him and liked him too well to believe the stories in circulation. He was a clean living man and a man of lofty ideals. He was exacting and demand- marked to me that he wished he had the power to stamp out all such places with his heel. I hope the wretch that took his life—who cut off such a useful life—will be brought to justice.

"I cannot and shall not believe that Judge Knowles loved these other women. I cannot believe that he told his housekeeper that he would marry her. I would like to face that woman for five minutes. There are many things which I would like to know about this case. Judge Knowles was the best, truest and noblest friend I ever had. I've tried hard to figure this crime out, but I can't.

"I was born in Rhode Island. I've lived in Providence eight years. I never knew the name of this housekeeper of his until I read it in the newspapers. I didn't bother about his home affairs. I would not spy on him in life, neither would I spy on him in death. He often told me he would combat and exterminate the evil conditions existing in the communities where he was judge.

"I owe much to Judge Knowles. When I was ill at the Hope Hospital he visited me every day. He brought me dainties and flowers. He was a true friend.

"That I cared for the judge I am willing for the whole world to know. Let these other women be brought before me."

U-Boat Chased American Liner, London Reports

By International News Service.

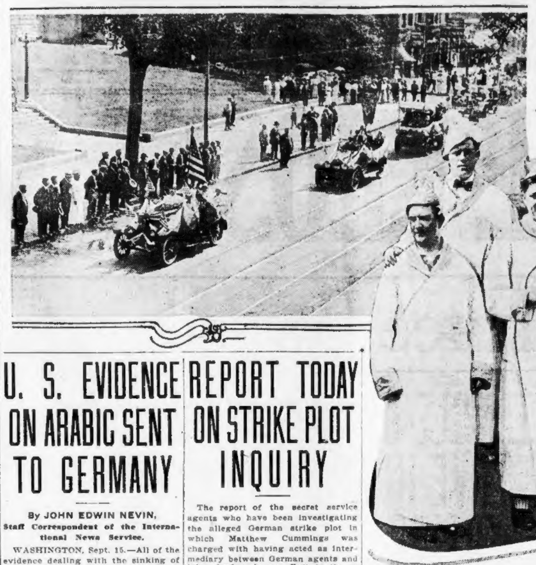

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Word reached London today of an exciting chase of the American liner St. Paul by a German submarine as the former steamed toward Liverpool on Sunday. In view of the crisis at Washington over the Arabic and Hesperian attacks the pursuit of a liner legitimately flying the American flag is regarded here as likely to increase the tension of American and German diplomacy.

The St. Paul was running easily south of the Irish coast when the captain spied a submarine in the distance off the stern. The captain evidently decided it would be discreet to avoid contact and signalled the engine room to put on top speed and at the same time ordered the wireless to signal for help. The wireless messages were caught up by the admiralty and help arrived in due time.

Although words were painted twelve feet high on the sides of the steamer reading "American line St. Paul," that did not deter the submarine from the pursuit. The passengers learned of the submarine and excitement prevailed, many of them donning life preservers.

The St. Paul speeded up to twenty knots an hour and the submarine was unable to gain, although evidently intent on reaching her. The submarine kept up the effort to come abreast of the liner until the St. Paul had got to the bar leading to the channel. By that time help had arrived and the submarine turned tail and disappeared into the water.

ELKS OF CAMBRIDGE HAVE AUTO PARADE AND OUTING

Elks' auto parade passing Cambridge City Hall, where it was reviewed by Mayor Good. At the right, a group of occupants of one of the most picturesque cars in the parade. Left to right, J. M. Sears, Herbert M. Hackett, John P. Brennan, George M. Burns and Daniel J. Doyle.

Several thousand people attended the annual outing today of the Cambridge Lodge of Elks, at Lily Pond Grove, in Saugus. The start was made with a motor parade, in which there were more than 300 machines, all decorated with flags and bunting.

The procession was reviewed at Cambridge City Hall by Mayor Good, who is a member of the lodge; Grand Exalted Ruler James R. Nicholson and District Deputy James L. Johnston. The parade brought out a big throng of spectators, who cheered and were cheered back by the Elks and their friends.

The procession was led by an auto containing Exalted Ruler Daniel A. Buckley, and in the other cars were prominent Elks from several cities.

At the picnic grounds there was a long program of sports, with a baseball game as the big feature. The game was played between the Benedicts, captained by "Bill" Sweeney, formerly of the Boston Nationals, and the Bachelors, captained by Thomas Sullivan.

The committee in charge of the outing was Joseph J. Donahue, Newman Somers, George Colgan, Joseph L. Gomes and John J. Corkery.

Award State Road Contracts.

Contracts for the construction of new State highways in Barre and in Braintree have been awarded by the Massachusetts Highway Commission. R. H. Newell Company of Uxbridge secured the Barre contract in the sum of $13,841, and the Braintree contract went to Edward J. Rouke of Abington for $12,390.

OPPORTUNITY FLITS

Quickly by, so don't fail to see the many attractive chances to make money which are listed today in the "Business Opportunity" columns of the Boston AMERICAN.

U. S. EVIDENCE ON ARABIC SENT TO GERMANY

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—All of the evidence dealing with the sinking of the Arabic compiled by the United States has been forwarded to the Berlin Foreign Office through State Department sources, at the request of the German Ambassador. It will be considered by the German Admiralty in the light of the report made by the submarine commander.

Count von Bernstorff is understood to believe that when this evidence, much of it the sworn statements of American citizens, is considered, that part of the Arabic note justifying the action of the submarine will be withdrawn voluntarily and a modified disavowal strong enough to satisfy President Wilson will be substituted.

In the meantime the Ambassador will be afforded every facility by the State Department to get his views before his home government and he will still be able to report on the unofficial exchanges to date in the hope of removing the extreme tension that again has been created.

REPORT CAUSES OPTIMISM.

Officials were frank in declaring today that the exclusive statement secured by the International News Service in Berlin that the Foreign Office indorsed the letter and spirit of the assurances given by the United States by Count von Bernstorff that hereafter there would be no wanton attacks on passenger-carrying vessels, had done much to create optimism among administration officials.

Count von Bernstorff will return to the Summer embassy to await the verdict of his home government on the Arabic evidence. It was pointed out today that apparently a serious diplomatic blunder has been made by Germany in sending the Arabic note direct instead of first communicating its contents to the Ambassador here.

If he had the opportunity to pass upon it, it is certain that clearer language would have been used to indicate that the arbitration offer went only to the question of liability for indemnity and the amount to be fixed. Secretary Lansing recognized that this was meant and made it very plain that there would be no objection to such a course. But President Wilson held that the text could be interpreted as a desire to arbitrate responsibility for the death of Americans, and he refused to permit formal acceptance until Germany reverses herself and admits that the submarine commander was in error, thus disavowing the attack.

WOULD DODGE INDEMNITY.

An unqualified disavowal by Germany would, it is pointed out, make her liable for an indemnity, the amount of which could be fixed by this government. Germany holds that Americans have not an indisputable right to travel on certain enemy ships, and wants to submit this to arbitration as a barrier against her having to pay an enormous indemnity in both the Arabic and Lusitania cases.

Indemnity through arbitration, Secretary Lansing and Ambassador von Bernstorff both agree, is not an unusual proceeding, and the only hitch is the desire of the President for a disavowal of the attack. The ambassador is very hopeful that the Berlin government can meet this demand in such a manner that its interests will be protected and the President be satisfied.

REPORT TODAY ON STRIKE PLOT INQUIRY

The report of the secret service agents who have been investigating the alleged German strike plot in which Matthew Cummings was charged with having acted as intermediary between German agents and labor leaders in an effort to tie up shipments of supplies and munitions to the allies by fomenting strikes, is expected to be made today to Attorney-General Gregory.

Even more sensational disclosures are promised when the full scope of the activities unearthed by the Federal detectives is disclosed. The evidence, already in shape for consideration by a grand jury, will be presented immediately, in the effort to secure indictments against the alleged conspirators.

The Executive Board of the Boston Central Labor Union, which met especially to consider the sensational disclosures of the alleged attempt to bribe the Longshoremen's Union leaders, kept secret the result of the conference.

Thomas V. O'Connor, the president of the International Longshoremen's Union, who is attending a district conference of longshoremen at Toledo, O., reaffirmed his charge of the conspiracy in an address.

"Entirely true," he said. "I couldn't add to the story. Dr. Dumba, the Austrian ambassador, was indirectly connected with the deal, I am sure. I was offered $1,035,000 by Matthew Cummings of Boston if I would call a general strike.

"I revealed the whole plot to the government. I was amazed at the magnitude of the proposition made to me. I had several conferences in Boston with Cummings. I then reported all my details to Secretary of Labor, Wilson. He hurried to New York, where President Wilson was reviewing the big naval fleet, and related to him the proposal of Cummings. From that time on the government has taken an active interest in the affair.

"Cummings said his scheme was that of the United Irish Societies, working in conjunction with the German societies of the United States. I did not believe him. I insisted that before I would go on with the deal, that I should know at once whence the money was to come.

"Cummings used a telephone. The number he called, I learned a few minutes later, was the office of George Sylvester Viereck, editor of the Fatherland."

Bernstorff Quits Capital.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Count von Bernstorff will leave Washington today for the Summer embassy at Cedarhurst, L. I. He probably will not return until he receives further advices from Berlin.

TEXAS RANGERS SHOOT DOWN 5 MEXICANS

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Five Mexicans were killed on the Mexican border last night and this morning by Texas rangers, according to Brownsville dispatches. Two of the Mexicans dressed as soldiers were shot last night when they were discovered spying upon the movements of United States troops. The other three were killed near Los Indios.

Batteries of guns have been moved closer to the border and trained upon the Mexican works across the line. Eight machine guns have been mounted upon railroad cars for quick transportation to any point upon the border where serious danger threatens.

Three Mexican troop trains arrived at Matamoras, a Mexican town held by the Carranzistas, shortly after daybreak. The American military authorities demanded an explanation, and the Mexican commander at Matamoras replied that they would be used to preserve order tomorrow, Mexican independence day.

"IF ARCHIBALD IS GUILTY, SO IS MORGAN"

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The next number of The Fatherland will contain an article suggesting the arrest of J. Pierpont Morgan on the ground that he has violated a federal statute in accepting a commission from the British government.

Under the heading, "Will Morgan Be Arrested?" The Fatherland, after citing the cases of Dr. Dumba and Dr. Dernburg, says in part:

"But Sir Cecil Spring-Rice is persona gratissima at the White House and the State Department, although he has been openly shown to have violated American law by recruiting men for the armies of the allies, and was found under mysterious circumstances in the house of the English ammunition agent for the United States, John Pierpont Morgan, when the latter was shot in his own house.

"These are strong contradictions of policy. The common mind cannot conceive why Sir Cecil should not be given his walking papers. But the distinction is no more ingenious than that under which it is proposed to prosecute James F. J. Archibald, the American war correspondent, for carrying a letter of Dr. Dumba to his government, while permitting J. P. Morgan to escape the clutches of the law under which it is intended to send Archibald to jail.

"Under Section 5,281 of the Federal Statutes it is a serious offence to 'accept a foreign commission.' Now Mr. Archibald accepted a foreign commission, it seems, in undertaking to deliver a letter from Dr. Dumba to the Foreign Office in Vienna.

"According to a London cable, he was ignorant of the contents of the letter, but that is not taken into consideration. He is already condemned. Now what is the law under which he is condemned? Attend!

" 'Every citizen of the United States who, within the territory or jurisdiction thereof, accepts and exercises a commission to serve a foreign prince, state, colony or people in war by land or by sea, against any prince, state, colony, district or people, with whom the United States are at peace, shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor and shall be fined not more than $2,000 and imprisoned not more than three years.'

"This law completely fits the case of J. P. Morgan. If Archibald is guilty of having accepted a foreign commission for the performance of an act against a prince, state, etc., with whom the United States are at peace, Mr. Morgan is even more guilty.

"He has accepted and is exercising a commission as ammunition agent for the British government. His appointment was publicly announced in Parliament."

MANY SCHOOLS ARE CLOSED BY HEAT

and girls might have complete relaxation.

Secretary Burgess of Superintendent Dyer's office said:

"The children are free to go home and get under cover. So far as we can find, the Boston public schools were never closed before as a whole on account of heat. Individual rooms have been given a recess, but never has the general order for closing gone forth as today."

The public schools were closed in Cambridge, Lexington, Concord, Bedford and Somerville.

In Bedford a temperature of 94 in the shade was reported. A Bedford horse dropped in the road from heat.

Warned by yesterday the public prepared itself as best it could against "worse and more of it" for today.

Yesterday, with a maximum temperature of 92 at 3 p. m., was the hottest day of this year in Boston and the hottest Sept. 14 in the history of Boston weather station, which has records back to 1872. The hottest Sept. 14 before yesterday was in 1903, which reached 91 degrees. The hottest September day the local records show was Sept. 7, 1881. Then we were smitten with 102 degrees.

The temperature of the night indicated that today would be worse than yesterday. At 1 a. m. today the temperature of 75 was 15 degrees higher than at the same hour the night before.

At 7 a. m. today Boston, with 76 degrees, was 11 degrees hotter than at that hour yesterday.

It was 82 degrees at 10 a. m. yesterday, but today the mercury had scrambled up to the 82 mark by 9 o'clock, beating its ascent of the day previous by an even hour.

BOSTON NOT THE HOTTEST.

And it was still climbing, while heat-wearied humanity shrank from the ordeal.

Last night made a record for itself, too, being the hottest of the Boston season, with a minimum temperature of 73.

The weather man said that Boston is not the hottest place in the land, because it was 84 at Key West at 8 a. m., when Boston had reached only 78.

It was interesting to learn that Sheridan, Wyo., was the coolest spot on our weather map, with a pleasing chill of 28 degrees at 8 o'clock this morning. That is four whole degrees below freezing and the weather man never blinked as he said it.

The snowstorm which came to Kansas City yesterday has melted.

New York was 74 at 8 o'clock, port, Me., 54, and Nantucket 70.

WASHINGTON DARES DECLARE THE HEAT WAVE A BLESSING

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The unprecedented hot wave that now is blanketing the eastern section of the country is a blessing to the people at large, despite the fact that it keeps the residents of the cities sweltering. This is the view of oFrecaster Bowie at the Unitd States Weather Bureau, expressed today.

Following the season of heavy rains the heat is doing splendid work, the forecaster said, in bringing to maturity the great grain crops in the Middle West, the cotton crop in the South and the hay crop in the East.

SOCIETY GIRL IS READY FOR SPEED TRIAL

LENOX, Sept. 15.—Arrangements are being made to hold the race between Miss Katherine Dahlgren, heiress to millions, and George Turnure, Jr., in secret, the former to use her big foreign-built car and Turnure to use a high powered motorcycle.

"All the village constables for miles around are watching us to prevent the race," said Miss Dahlgren today, "but it will be over before they get through shining up their badges."

Turnure had his motorcycle out yesterday tuning it up, when it jumped off the road and ran into the kitchen of a farmhouse. He has bought a racing automobile to use in the event that his motorcycle fails to vanquish the Dahlgren car.

Another aspirant for the speed honors of the Berkshire roads has arisen in Miss Maria Lawrence Wetherill, also a New York society girl. She has a big racing car and has challenged Miss Dahlgren. She was arrested yesterday for speeding and fined $15 today.

Miss Dahlgren admits she has been arrested six times in the last few months for speeding, and says the only reason she and young Turnure fear to hold the race in public is because the authorities have threatened to revoke her license the next time she is arrested for fast driving.

Two Are Injured in Whitman Auto Crash

Two persons narrowly escaped serious injuries when two automobiles met in collision at what is known as "Dead Man's Corner," Temple and Bedford streets, Whitman, the scene of a bad accident a few nights ago. Miss Delia Grimes of Winthrop was driving one machine and John Vargus of Rockland the other car. Both were slightly hurt.

THAW WIRES TO AMERICAN HE IS NOT FINED

The AMERICAN received today from Harry K. Thaw at San Francisco a telegram that any reports of his being fined for auto speeding in Bellevue, a Pittsburgh suburb, were false. Earlier dispatches from Pittsburgh said that a fine and costs, amounting to $13.05, had been imposed on Thaw for overspeeding and that the bill had been sent to his mother. Thaw is attending the Panama-Pacific Exposition. He left Pittsburgh on a cross-country auto trip soon after he was declared sane and freed on bail in New York city.

The report of the Pittsburgh fine evdently reached Thaw speedily, for he lost not time in wiring a denial to the AMERICAN, as follows:

San Francisco, Sept. 14.

AMERICAN, Boston:

You will be glad to know that no fine was entered against me yesterday or any other time and that Burgess Longmore of Bellevue, near Pittsburgh, authorizes statement that no warrant was ever issued against me and no fine ever imposed for speeding. Somebody jealous. New York correspondent possibly invented falsehood. H. K. THAW.

Harrington and Weller in Maryland

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15.—Returns from yesterday's State-wide primary show Comptroller Ellerson C. Harrington was nominated as the Democratic candidate for Governor over United States Senator Blair Lee, while O. E. Weller was nominated by the Republicans over William T. Warburton. Lee was the organization candidate. He carried Baltimore, but the counties rolled up a large majority against him.

Weller's success was a landslide victory for the Republican organization.

MISS BURGER'S ILLNESS PUTS OFF HEARING

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 15.—The condition of Miss Emily G. Burger will prevent a hearing at Warren tomorrow of the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Tiffany Blair Mohr and the three negroes, who are charged with the murder of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, while on his way to his Newport villa in his automobile.

As Miss Burger cannot be discharged from the Rhode Island Hospital before another week, the Providence County Grand Jury will have acted on the Mohr tragedy in the meantime.

Fresh evidence that Cecil Victor Brown and Henry Spellman, two of the three negroes charged with the Mohr murder, entered into a plot to "get" Dr. Mohr, was presented to Assistant State Attorney Claude R. Branch.

The evidence was furnished by Mrs. A. C. Wright of Easton Centre, Mass.

Mrs. Wright visited the County Jail where she identified Brown and Spellman as the two of three negroes who rode down on a Broad street car August 22, the day after Brown had been discharged by Dr. Mohr. The third man was not Healis, she said.

Mrs. Wright came to Providence August 22 to take home her daughter, who had been visiting her married brother, Lucius Wright, at No. 357 Smith street.

On her way downtown to connect with a Taunton car she and her daughter boarded a crowded Broad street car at about 3:45 p. m. They were obliged to stand.

When the car reached a spot on Broad street, "where the street was all torn up," three negroes boarded the car. She noticed the occurrence because one of the three stepped upon her foot but did not apologize.

The three, apparently resuming a previous conversation, according to Mrs. Wright, discussed how they "and we'll get him, d——d him."

No name was mentioned. The smaller of the trio, however, was emphatic in his remarks. "Do as I tell you," he is quoted by Mrs. Wright, "and we'll get him, d——d him.'

He also informed his companions that Tuesday night or Thursday night was the best time.

TREMONT STREET, JUST PAVED, TO BE TORN UP IN SIX PLACES

Conflicting statements by city officials and State Fire Prevention Commissioner O'Keefe today resulted in a snarl in the placing of responsibility for orders to tear up the newly-paved Summer and Tremont streets. City officials put the orders up to Commissioner O'Keefe, who says that not only has he not issued any such orders, but has absolutely no power to do so. He says that all he can do is to order sprinkler systems installed in certain buildings.

Six places are to be torn up in Tremont street, which has enjoyed its new wood-block paving less than a month. The work is to be done to connect buildings on the street with the high-pressure fire service for sprinkler systems.

Tremont street has been the last paved street in the city since the wooden block pavement was put in and was paved only after considerable effort on the part of the AMERICAN to improve the condition of the city's streets.

Now, through red tape and division of authority among the city government, the Rapid Transit Commission and the Fire Prevention Commission, the street must be torn up again, costing the city a large amount of money.

450 BUILDINGS AFFECTED.

The six places on Tremont street in the new wooden block paved portion are opposite Nos. 194 to 215, 325, 156, 158, 174 and 243. Besides the tearing up which must be done on Tremont street, orders have been issued to over 450 buildings by the Fire Prevention Commission for the installing of sprinkler systems and the majority of the streets in the down town section are listed to be torn up.

As a result of a conference held by Mayor Curley, Building Commissioner Patrick O'Hearn and Public Works Commissioner Edward F. Murphy, the Mayor has requested Commissioner Murphy to call a joint conference once every fortnight during the entire year with the engineers of every department in the city, to see if a plan can be devised to prevent another such tearing up.

At these conferences, a representative of the Fire Prevention Commission will be asked to be present, also representatives from the Boston Transit Commission and all the public service corporations.

These engineers will get together and talk over street repairs and repaving and make plans to have all underground work done on streets before any repairing or repaving is done.

The Mayor says that he has no jurisdiction over either the Fire Prevention Commission or the Transit Commission or any public service corporation, but if they will co-operate with him and his engineers thousands of dollars can be saved annually on street construction and repairs by systematic planning.

"I have requested Commissioner of Public Works Murphy," Mayor Curley said, "to call joint conferences every two weeks during the entire year to pass upon the question of underground work in our streets.

TEARING UP STREETS.

"Commissioner Murphy will call the engineers of all the city departments to these conferences that they may discuss jointly the work which each department would need to plan out in advance in order to prevent any unnecessary tearing up of our streets. I have also requested Fire Prevention Commissioner O'Keefe to be represented at these conferences and have asked that the Transit Commission will take part in them too.

"While I have no jurisdiction over the Fire Prevention Commission nor any real authority so far as the Transit Commission is concerned, I am convinced they will co-operate with me to the fullest possible extent."

Besides the tearing up now going on on Summer street and the six orders already issued for the tearing up of portions of the newly paved part of Tremont street, the following streets down town are to be torn up for the installation of sprinkler systems in buildings located on the streets: Bromfield, Washington, Kneeland, Congress, Bedford, Beach, North, High, Hanover, Hawkins, Hamilton place, Federal, Franklin, Green, Columbus avenue, which has just been repaved; Causeway, Endicott, Pearl, Commercial, Atlantic avenue, Bristol, Bowker and many others.

Nations Church Needs Funds to Put up Edifice

Boston's Church of All Nations, the only one in the country, has everything in stock for its new building on Corning street, but money to pay for the labor.

The stone has been given by the Unitarians of Boston, and comes from the old Second Church, of Copley square, torn down two years ago.

The Rev. E. J. Helms, superintendent of the Morgan Memorial, has given a site for the building.

When Completed, it will have daily meetings in Italian, Greek, Syrian, Hebrew and German. There will be conversation rooms in the basement where neighbors of the nationalities may get together and talk over their affairs.

"The Church of All Nations is yet a dream," says the Rev. E. C. Berlon, a Boston Methodist minister. "Those who are familiar with the history of Morgan Memorial, however, are confident that the dream will not long be in realization. The plans of the new building have been made. All that is wanted is the money to pay for the labor of putting the material together."

Grave Is Robbed of Body and Casket in Webster Cemetery

WEBSTER, Sept. 15.—An investigation led to the discovery today that a grave in Sacred Heart Cemetery, in which the body of Amidee Leboeuf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Prosper Leboeuf of East Main street, was buried three years ago, had been robbed.

The burial in the same lot, in the cemetery of Joseph Leboeuf of Myrtle avenue, an uncle of Amidee, was responsible for the discovery, it being noticed when the latter's grave was dug that the earth in the other grave had not settled.

The grave was opened and the box in which the casket had been placed was found to have been broken open and the $90 casket containing the body removed. Relatives of the deceased believe the body may have been disinterred and carried away by medical students.

Custom House in Haiti Taken Over

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The United States now controls nine of the ten customs houses in Haiti. Admiral Caperton today reported to the Navy Department that marines had taken over two more, at Jeomel and Le Cayes.

Two companies of marines were taken from Port au Prince Tuesday and landed at the two towns by the gunboat Sacramento. U. S. paymasters were placed in command of the ports.

Houghton & Dutton Voted Confidence

The Allied Building Trades Council at its regular meeting last night voted an expression of confidence to the Houghton & Dutton Company. The resolutions state that the company has always been fair in its dealings with the Council, and that there has never been any grievance that has not been possible of adjustment to the satisfaction of the Council.

RASH DISFIGURED FACE NECK

Hands and Arms. Very Red and in Clusters. Would Itch and Burn. In Three Days

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My trouble began about eight years ago. My face, neck, hands, and arms came out in a sort of a rash. The rash was very red and in clusters. It would itch and burn and keep me from sleeping. It used to disfigure me too.

"I was treated and it went away for a time. When I came in my convinced it came again. I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and I got some. I washed with Cuticura Soap then applied the Ointment. After the first application it felt better, and in three days was gone." # SYMPHONY WILL ABANDON AUCTIONS

The Boston Symphony Orchestra will not sell tickets for its concerts and public rehearsals at auction after this season, according to an announcement by C. A. Ellis, manager of the organization.

Beginning next Fall, it is planned to sell seats at fixed prices by subscription. Persons desiring to retain the same seats from year to year may do so by informing the management at the end of each season.

The adoption of the new plan means that the auction this year may determine the holding of a seat for years to come.

BULLET SHOT BY CAR HITS YOUTH

George Grimm, twenty, of No. 35 Beech Glen street, Roxbury, is at the City Hospital with a bullet wound in his left breast. With several friends, he was standing at Washington and Cliff streets when a passing car ran over a cartridge on the track. The report was followed almost instantly by Grimm's fall to the ground.

When friends realized he had been shot, an automobile was speedily secured and the injured man was rushed to the hospital, where it was found that the bullet had gone deep.

The police have under suspicion a thirteen-year-old boy who is thought to have placed the cartridge on the track.

'Lonely Spirits of Napoleon's Dead War Cause'

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 15.—The spirits of the soldiers killed in the Napoleonic wars 100 years ago influenced Europe's rulers to start this war, Dr. H. F. Austin of Los Angeles asserted at the National Spiritualists' congress here.

Dr. Austin said they wanted warlike company and were tired of being joined by spirits of people who had died natural deaths in a peaceful frame of mind.

Dr. L. Coleman of Pasadena announced that Abraham Lincoln freed the slaves on the advice of a little girl of the spirit world, who appeared to him in his study at the White House the night before he signed the emancipation proclamation.

WOMAN LEAPS EIGHT STORIES TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Some mystery today still surrounds the death of Miss Elizabeth Fenley, daughter of a leading Kentucky financier, following a fall from the top of an eight-story loft building in West Eighth street. The coroner has been unable to learn how Miss Fenley came to be upon the building from which she either fell or leaped to her death.

For about two months Miss Fenley had been living at The Hotel Majestic, where she had a suite of rooms. On her arrival, she brought a letter from her Louisville physician to Dr. William B. Pritchard, asking him to treat her for nervous disorder. He provided her with a trained nurse, Miss Edith Hebb.

Henry Meyborg, who lives in No. 35 West Eighth street, adjoining the vacant lot, saw Miss Finley fall.

BOSTON'S PIANO KING

NOTICE:
Remember the number—We are on the street floor—Get off Elevated trains at Dudley-st. Terminal—Our salesrooms are a few doors from the corner of Dudley and Washington sts., going toward Forest Hills—Don't look for signs, look for the number, 2418, on the ground floor.

He Says:
"Hard Earned Dollars Must Not Be Thrown Away"

DON'T PAY BIG PRICES
FOR ANY MAKE PIANO

I HAVE been telling the people for years that it is not necessary to pay luxury prices for pianos. A piano is no longer a luxury. I have taken it out of that class by reducing the price and making the terms of purchase liberal. I have made it as easy to secure a piano as it is to secure any other household necessity. I have educated the public in piano values to such an extent that the intelligent man or woman, who knows how to go about it, can now buy a piano for much less than it could be bought for five years ago. I am in receipt of letters daily from all over New England, praising me for my stand against the high-priced-dealer, and I am selling more pianos at lower prices than ever before. It pays to protect the public. Don't buy any make piano till you see me. I am known as a consistent price-smasher. I make no exceptions. I smash the price on every make piano in Boston, if these makes get to my sacrifice floor. The other day I went to the financial rescue of a big piano house formerly of Boylston street. I bought for spot cash thousands of dollars' worth of fine pianos from this house, names of which are mentioned below. No amount of argument could prevent me from smashing the original prices of these pianos down to a price so low that my customers could get the benefit of my purchase. Come and get the piano bargain of your life and save as much as $200. Liberal credit. Big money-saving sale now on—Doors open every day at 8:30. Open Monday, Thursday and Saturday nights until 9.

2,000 STRIKERS NOW OUT AT LOWELL

LOWELL, Sept. 15.—With their number swelled to 2,000, strikers from the United States Cartridge Company's factories declared today that they can force the company to make concessions on account of its contracts.

The company has huge war orders for the allies with contract clauses calling for specific deliveries. The company is two weeks ahead on the contracts at present, but the strikers feel that when output slackens and this two weeks' leeway is exhausted, the company will be forced to listen to the strikers.

The strikers declared today that, with 2,000 out and with the prospect of more striking among the remaining 3,000 still at work, the manufacturing processes will be crippled.

STEVENS HAD BAD STOMACH TROUBLE

Employe of Boston St. Railway Co. Says Plant Juice Did the Work.

"The harm worked by the taking into the human system of minerals, opiates or other poisons is simply incalculable," said the Plant Juice Man, who has his headquarters at the Liggett Drug Co.'s Store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets. "The natural vegetable medicines are constructive in their action, soothing inflamed tissues, strengthening weak parts, toning up sluggish organs and gently stimulating them to natural vigor and activity. They build up the health of the whole body. The other, on the other hand, acts by substitution. They practically all have violent, irritating and poisonous properties, and in place of the natural action of the organ they goad it to a violent reaction, which leaves it inflamed and exhausted and less able than ever to do its work properly. The next time it will depend on the drug and a habit is thus quickly formed.

Not a day passes but what statements are received testifying to the great medicinal value of Plant Juice, in relieving ailments of long-standing. The other day the signed testimonial of Mr. Edward Stevens, a popular employe of the Boston Street Railway Co., who lives at No. 638 East Fifth Street, was received. He stated:

"I have had stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia for the past four years. My food would ferment in my stomach, and cause gas with great distress after eating. My stomach was bloated and I had a hard lump there like a piece of lead. I would spit up blood and thought I had ulceration or catarrh of the stomach. I had dizzy spells, was nervous and restless and could not get any sleep at night. I could get nothing to relieve me until I heard about Plant Juice, which has proved to be just the medicine I needed. I have taken four bottles. Now I have a fine appetite, sleep well and have no more dizzy spells. No more aches or pains for me, as Plant Juice has driven them away. I certainly will recommend Plant Juice to every one. My mother is also taking it and it is just the medicine for her."—Advertisement.

EVA TANGUAY in one of her latest costumes she is wearing at Keith's this week.

Eva Tanguay's latest wrinkle is a speedometer. She doesn't wear it on her automobile, but upon her left leg, and she uses it to measure how fast she travels while she is before the audience at Keith's this week.

Eva, you know, runs up and down all the time she is before the footlights. She is always in motion and it occurred to her to see how far she goes during one of her spells.

She first wore the instrument at the Tuesday matinee and when she came off after twenty minutes' work she looked at the register and found it registered two and one-eighth miles.

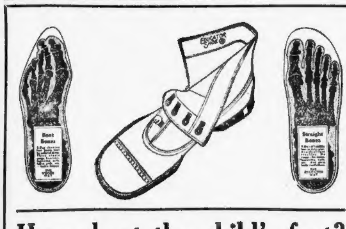

"That isn't enough," said Eva. "I've got to travel faster. Watch my smoke tonight."

Those who saw her last night wondered at her amazing exertions while she was putting her songs over, but when Eva, perspiring but triumphant looked at her register, she found that she had hit the pace for three miles.

"Pretty good for the hottest day in the year," remarked the lady tornado.

MRS. PALMER, 3 DAYS DIVORCED, WEDS AGAIN

Three days after securing a divorce from Jackson Palmer, the young Lowell attorney, Mrs. Palmer has remarried, according to a dispatch received from Philadelphia today.

Her husband, according to the dispatch, is Dr. Henry B. Smith of the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania.

On the marriage license, Mrs. Palmer gave her name as Mrs. Mary Palmer, her age as thirty, and said she was the daughter of Mrs. H. P. Perkins of Lonsdale, Pa., formerly of West Newton.

The divorce was granted Mrs. Palmer last week on the groun of cruel and abusive treatment. Mrs. Palmer said that her husband "virtually kicked her out of her home on the peaceful Christmas night of 1912."

Jackson Palmer is a son of the late Mayor Charles D. Palmer of Lowell. He was graduated from Harvard and the Harvard Law School; is interested in athletics and especially canoeing, and is wealthy in his own right.

He and Mary Perkins of Newton were married in 1908 and separated four years later.

Palmer was prominent in the Middlesex Ring investigations, was indicted for perjury and convicted, but took an appeal, after which the case was filed. The perjury charge was based on testimony given against the keeper of the Lowell jail, before the Middlesex Grand Jury.

Warrant Refused in Auto Death Case

Judge Ahearn of the Roxbury court has declined to issue a warrant for the arrest of Autoist Alexander S. Yule of Washington street, Quincy, for manslaughter in connection with the killing of William P. Hennessey, sixteen, of No. 103 Alexander street, Roxbury.

Fined $35 in Auto Crusade at Natick

Constantino Russo of Milford was fined $35 by Judge Kennedy in Natick today for failing to blow his horn and failure to stop his automobile on signal. The police are crusading against reckless autoists.

NEW WIRELESS STATION OPENS AT CHELSEA

The new government wireless station on the grounds of the Chelsea Naval Hospital, the second most powerful radio-station in the country, was opened at 8 a. m. today without formalities.

Within a few minutes after Gunner G. A. Dunner had taken charge of the plant, communication had been established with the Chicago station, more than 1,000 miles away. Other test messages were sent to the Arlington station at Washington, the most powerful in the country, and the Colon station, Panama, 2,100 miles away.

When in full operation, thirteen operators will be employed at the plant. The station now is the fourth in the New England circuit, which is under command of Lieutenant E. G. Blakeslee.

The approach to the station, which towers 300 feet in the air, will be guarded by marines from the navy yard. It is planned to transfer the plant now at the navy yard to Chelsea.

Chalmers Six-40
$1350 Seven Passenger

20% More Power

The Chalmers valve-in-head motor with overhead camshaft is as far in advance of the old types of motors as the self-starter is ahead of the starting crank.

It is generally recognized in the trade and among owners as the 20% more power motor.

THE Chalmers Six-40 is the new motor car at a lower price, equipped with this wonderful new type of motor which has made it necessary for the Chalmers Company to so tremendously increase its production for 1916.

The Season's Motor Sensation

On the hills and country roads where going is hard, this $1350 car will do all for you that it did for A. E. Walden when he established a record at the recent Uniontown Hill Climb, driving a Chalmers Six-40, that was eight seconds better than the previous record for the class.

Within the limits of touring car service its wonderful valve-in-head overhead camshaft motor will give you all the efficiency and "trigger-quick" getaway that this type gave De Palma and Resta when they averaged 90, 98 and 102 miles an hour for 300 and 500 miles at Indianapolis and Chicago.

Comfortable as a Rocking Chair

The new Chalmers Six-40 is as comfortable as a big library rocking-chair.

The leather upholstered seats are deep and luxurious, the sides of the tonneau are built on the "armchair" principle. You ride in the car—not on it.

The leg-room is ample; the rear springs are 57 inches long—longer than any other car in this class—and the result is that the car glides over rough spots with an easy motion that makes motoring a pleasure under every condition.

Made in Chalmers Shops

Chalmers cars are made in Chalmers shops under the most exacting standards. They are quality cars throughout in style, beauty, comfort and performance.

See us to-day. We will give you a ride over the hills and country roads in this $1350 car that will prove its 20% greater power.

New Service to Owners
Every Chalmers dealer gives to every buyer of a Chalmers car a Service Coupon Book, each coupon being redeemable for a definite amount of inspection service at any Chalmers dealer's anywhere

Chalmers Club and Clubman
Every Chalmers owner is entitled to a membership card in the Chalmers Club commending him to the courtesies of Chalmers representatives everywhere, and to receive "The Chalmers Clubman" regularly without charge.

Grace of Form Means Health

Beautiful Justine Johnstone Says Figure Counts for as Much as Face in Measure of Attractiveness

"A beautiful figure should be the model for splendid materials and gorgeous colorings."

Miss Justine Johnstone of the "Follies," who lives her theories

MISS JUSTINE JOHNSTON, one of the showgirls in "The Follies of 1915," which comes to the Colonial next week, who is declared by many to be the most beautiful actress in America and who has won several beauty competitions, has decided ideas upon beauty and the like. "I have never thought of any other kind of beauty beyond that of form," she said, smiling easily when questioned upon the subject, "and I don't think any girl is pretty either who has no suppleness and vigor of body to display.

"The reason why one's figure counts so much is because it is through grace of form that we see beauty in its most bewitching representation—health. A healthy body is the one true possession of a beautiful woman, for any clever woman can be merely pretty.

"Beauty of form, that is, healthy beauty of form, is shown in a hundred different ways through the figure. A girl should have plenty of exercise in order to display her charms properly. Systematic exercise is the best thing ever invented. If a girl exercises at the same time every day it will benefit her just twice as much as if she did exercising at odd moments when it can be conveniently sandwiched in. There is a kind of exercise for the development of every part of the body.

"Through exercise and exercise alone comes grace of movement. It is exactly as though one were unaccustomed to doing a certain thing. If a girl is unused to making a dress, no doubt the concoction will be a failure. If a girl is unused to exercise, how can she be graceful? There is very little difference between the two and surely no excuse for a girl who may gain physical loveliness through exercise to be awkward and clumsy in her movements.

"I believe, too, in clothing the form sumptuously. A beautiful figure should be the model for splendid materials and gorgeous colorings. Clothing helps to bring ease of movement and consciousness of one's costuming is not at all bad for effects of manner. Everything has a direct influence upon the mind anyway, and as the mind thinks so will the body respond.

"Be graceful and charming in your thoughts then, in order to have your healthy body reveal what you are thinking, but above all don't be afraid to start at the beginning. Rome wasn't built in a day, and you must go about building your figure by a regular systematic set of exercises. Learn how to exercise so as to put all your mind upon it and make it the centre of your thoughts while you are busy, and after you have attained what you set out to possess, keep the loveliness that is yours by still more vigorous work and play.

"If you are so situated that you cannot afford to purchase expensive costumes, do not for an instant imagine that you are prevented thereby from making the most of your appearance. Beauty of form depends, it is true, something upon the manner in which you dress, but simplicity always has a recommendation of its own.

"It would be folly to say that the poor girl, or the girl in moderate circumstances, cannot make just as much of her figure as the rich girl.

"The girl, rich or poor, who has acquired the art of being graceful gives a constant reminder that the body is the expression of a glowing health—and what is so prized as that?

"The old Greeks and Romans knew very well what they were doing when they taught the importance of exercise and the untrammelled use of the muscles."

Makes the Eyes Clear, White and Beautiful.

If your eyes ever get bloodshot and yellow you can clear them up in half a minute and make them bright and sparkling by dropping a single drop of pure liquid boroline in each eye. Its wonderful how quickly this prescription works and its use is entirely safe as it contains no cocaine, belladonna or harmful drugs of any kind and boracic acid, and it cannot possibly smart or injure the eyes. This prescription is fine to use before going out in the evening to make the eyes clear and white. Elder-Jarmes and leading druggists everywhere have it put up and ready for use. A great many sending eye specialists enquiries and recommend this same prescription and use it in their own practice.—Advertisement.

A Discourtesy Title

The precedence granted to Count and Countess Gleichen lends point to a story of the Count's father, who became a British Admiral.

While he was midshipman on a man-of-war his ship put in at a settlement where there were English troops, and the commanding officer came on board. Presently he asked the captain whether there was not a prince, a relative of Queen Victoria, among his officers, and, on learning that this was the case, asked to be introduced to him.

"By the way," said he, "ought I call him 'Your Highness' or 'Your Serene Highness,' or what?"

"Please yourself," said the captain; "we always call him 'Sausage,' because he's a German."

Woman and Her Money

Some Advice Concerning the Folly of Marrying a Man Who Considers That What's His Wife's Is His, and What's His Is His Own

By DOROTHY DIX

A YOUNG man writes me that he is going to be married to a girl who has a few thousand dollars, and that he has demanded that the young woman turn over her little fortune to him on their wedding day. He says that he doesn't care for the money itself, because he has plenty, but that he doesn't want his wife to have any money of her own, because, if she does, she can buy things without asking his permission, and that would never do.

Doesn't that sentiment sound like Hark from the Tomb? Isn't it an echo from the far, dim past? I didn't suppose there was a man left in the world that held to this antiquated notion concerning a woman's inability to handle a dollar—even her own dollar—without giving an account of it to her husband. And I am more than amazed that a woman of this day and generation can be found who is willing to marry a man who frankly avows such pre-Adamite views.

Any man who wants to rob his wife of her little inheritance and who thinks it dreadful for her to have a cent of her own to spend, or to buy her a chocolate soda without asking his kind permission, will make one of the lightwad, tyrannical husbands who send a woman to the grave, or Reno, according to the amount of spirit and backbone she has.

THE OBVERSE

I wonder, in a case like this, how the man would like it if the situation were reversed, and the woman should demand that he turn over to her all of his property, so that he would have to come to her every time he wanted a dollar, and explain what he wanted to do with it. How would he enjoy having to hem and haw and dimple and shuffle every morning trying to screw his courage up to the point of asking his wife for car fare?

How would he like it if every time he wanted a new suit or a hat he had to have either a stand-up fight to get the money from his wife, or else cajole and jolly it out of her by a lot of lying flatteries that degraded him in his own sight?

Suppose he had some relative—a poor sick old mother for instance—that he yearned to help, whom he was willing even to deny himself to help, but he could never even get her even so much as a five dollar bill because his wife held the purse strings, and he had not a penny of his own?

He would find such a situation intolerable. He would say that no man can maintain his self-respect and be financially dependent on anybody else.

WHAT HE SHOULD THINK

He would feel that he would rather die than go to even the most generous father every time he needed money, and as for taking it from one who gave it grudgingly, and berated him for his extravagance as he doled out every nickel, why, every drop of blood in him would rise up in furious protest.

Yet that is what this man is calmly proposing to inflict on the woman he thinks he loves, and is going to marry. His idea is, of course, that women are mere chattels with no normal instincts of self-respect or dignity that a husband is bound to take into consideration. He thinks that a woman would just as soon be a beggar as anything else, and that she rather enjoys abasing herself before her lord and master, and talking with gratitude such alms as he is gracious enough to bestow upon her as a token of his generosity, and not at all in consideration of her performing the multitudinous duties of wife, and mother, and housekeeper, and social secretary.

Well, if he or any other man takes that view of the matter, he is making the mistake of his life. Women long for financial independence, just as much as men do. They abhor mendicancy just as much as men do. They resent, with their whole souls, the fact that the job of the housewife, which is the hardest work and the longest hours of any other labor in the world, is not even listed among gainful occupations, and carries with it no pay envelope.

THE GENERAL COMPLAINT

The one complaint that you hear more than any other among married women is that they have never a dollar of their own that they can speak of as their very own. The one thing that causes every woman who gets restless about getting married is giving up her own pocketbook.

The thing that does most to promote peace and happiness in a household is for the man to rise to the superial heights of justice and generosity and give his wife a definite allowance for dress and the housekeeping, instead of having to have it screwed out of him by the penny.

It's bad enough, goodness knows, for the man to struggle to himself the right to handle every cent of his own money when it's his own money, but it's gigantic nerve for him to assume the right to use his wife's property.

If one thing every woman may be certain, and that is that the right sort of a husband will not want to rob her of her money, and from the wrong sort she would best protect herself in every time of trouble, domestic or otherwise. Also even a husband treats a wife who is financially independent of him with the respect that we all show to those who have money.

A wise old banker once said, cynically, that he was perfectly certain that his daughters would all be tenderly cherished by their husbands, and when asked his grounds for this faith in matrimony he replied: "I have settled two hundred and fifty thousand dollars on each one of my girls, so their husbands can't touch it, and the income on that will make any man polite to any woman who has it."

Parrots as Psychologists

They Are the Character Students of the Bird Kingdom

PARROTS are the greatest character students of the bird and animal kingdom, according to experts who have closely studied their capabilities. A parrot, it is said, has as large a brain as a man's in proportion to his size, and he uses it well.

Despite his actions and appearances to the contrary, the parrot is exceedingly sensitive. It is this trait which has given rise to his bad reputation for the three s's—sullenness, stupidity and stubbornness.

Someone orders a parrot to do something. The parrot looks at him and thinks it over. It is characteristic of the wise person that he thinks before he speaks. It is characteristic also of the wisest of birds, the parrot.

The parrot reads a man or a woman by voice. That accounts for the fancies taken by parrots to certain human beings. They read unerringly character as revealed by the voice. Next to the voice, they are sensitive as to colors. They also have a great ear for music.

In one case a parrot, appropriately named Caruso, was trained to sing in three keys, high soprano, contralto and baritone. His trainer says that he developed Caruso from what was regarded as a squawky parrot. There is, however, no need for any one to have a squawky parrot. When the bird squawks it is the fault of the owner, who should be careful that the bird hears no harsh sounds.

Another musical parrot could entertain an audience for a couple of hours by playing on a tiny grand piano specially built for it. This bird could play many popular airs on demand, and had been trained also to give an excellent imitation of animals.

As an indication of the linguistic abilities of a parrot, it might be mentioned that in another case a parrot was taught to speak five hundred distinct sentences.

Looking Ahead

"But you can't afford to get married on your salary."

"Well, it will give me a good excuse to ask for a raise."

The Story of a Doctor's Wife

Told by the Wife Herself

CHAPTER XII.

"NOW here's a proposition you can't logically refuse," said Peter with an air of inspiration. "I'll get your beloved Lenore Wallis three days' leave from the training school and she can take care of Peterkin while we all go to the house-party. Surely you'll trust the boy to her if I will."

"Peter darling, I can't. I just wouldn't have a minute's peace at the party—I couldn't help thinking about our baby all the time. He's so little yet; he needs his mother. We settled it yesterday that you and Betty would go to Marian's week-end party and I'd come down for the day Sunday. Please let me stay with Peterkin."

"You never did like Marian," began Peter with a man's insistence that his own plans be carried out.

"Dear—it isn't that. Truly it isn't that. You see I want you to go and get the rest you need so badly—but I'd be miserable away from the boy. No man can understand just how a mother feels about that. . . ."

Peter looked at me with quiet speculation. "The boy's first," he said finally. "That's the way of it. If I had deserted you before he was born he would still have come to make your life possible—and he wouldn't have been mine at all. I love him through you—but you love me because I'm our boy's father. Men miss something in life."

SHE FEELS SORRY

A great wave of tenderness for my big, strong—and yet helpless husband swept over me. I started from my place behind the coffee-urn; I meant to go to him, to pillow his head on my shoulder and to pour out some of the love I had so long repressed with a woman's foolish pride that makes her think herself more desirable when "unattainable."

If I had spoken then so much unhappiness might have been saved that I fairly ache to think of my unvoiced words. But at that moment Betty came sweeping into the room in a wonderful gold-colored negligee like her own spun-sunshine halo of hair. Peter's eyes rested on her approvingly, and I felt strangely unfamiliar in my little lawn morning dress. "Good morning, Betty Sunshine," said Peter in his most wonderfully caressing tones.

"Do I get any breakfast, Connie?" asked my sister, "or does the methodical housekeeper tire of my lazy ways?"

And from then on the conversation centred about Betty and her joyous anticipations of Marian Farley's week-end house party. I begged to be left out of the festivities, but Peter did not urge it again, and I was too proud to suggest a change of plans.

Suddenly it swept over me that I had never entered into Peter's work—and that now I was being shut out from his play time. He did not enter into my passion of worship for our boy. And so with separate interests according to the habit drifting into a relation where our lives were two separate streams that crossed in their courses instead of flowing in one broad channel to the sea of life.

Too many married couples are like that. I think we separate in all their deepest interests, living in a solitude where each individual longs vainly for understanding sympathy. And to each there is all too likely to come someone who brushes away that feeling of being "misunderstood" and who seems to people the unendurable soul-solitude we all know—and dread.

On Friday afternoon Peter and Betty whirled off gaily in Marian's big car. Peter's parting injunction was to be sure and catch the earliest train Sunday morning, and not to call any inquiring patient where he was, but to refer all to Dr. Richards.

After the holiday-makers had gone, I put my boy to bed and then went through the farce of trying to eat my dinner. My head ached dully with unrequited longing, and my dry throat seemed to say to food, "No thoroughfare!" And so I made Annette clear the table and settled myself on the couch in the living room with a book I knew well I could not read.

SHE TRIES TO FORGET

Very often when a woman's heart is heavy she has a sudden desire to make herself as beautiful as she can with every aid to Nature at her command. The zeta of dressing seems to me a form of forgetfulness that there is no one to care whether or not one is lovely. "Well, even if he doesn't appreciate me," whispers a wayward heart, "I am still young and attractive—maybe life offers me something." And when a woman puts principles behind herself in that way, she does not guess that she is having an assignation with Beelzebub, Prince of Evil.

Surely no woman who loved Peter Drayton as passionately as I did, and who so worshipped his son, could dream that almost any substitute would do when I was struggling to forget all my jealous doubts and fears!

How circumstance must have laughed at me, when I settled my orchid-colored chiffons about me on the couch and picked up "Wisdom and Destiny"! And with what chuckling must she have stretched out the long arm of coincidence and hurled Jimmie Farley into the room at the particular moment that I dropped my book listlessly to the floor and turned and burrowed by head in the pillows to smother my wild sobbing!

JIM FARLEY APPEALS

"Can I help, Connie?" Will you let me stay and comfort you?" said a deep voice. On my shoulder there rested a hand that fairly telegraphed to my trembling heart a message of strength. Suddenly it flashed across my mind that Peter always rushed irritably from the emotional deluge of my tears—though I cried so seldom as to feel that I had a right to my misery when it came.

I tried to laugh off my sobs, tried to raise and assume some dignity of self-possession. I got stumblingly to my feet and then collapsed in forlorn weakness in Jim Farley's arms. I never meant to find myself there—he never meant to touch his best friend's wife. Of that I am sure. And in a minute I had pulled myself out of the refuge that seemed so providentially opened to me and was in front of the mirror dabbing at my eyes and laughing with hysterical giggles that matched my hysterical tears.

"If I can help you—tell me about it, Connie," said Jimmie, at last. "Remember I'm Peter's pal—he's always been my best friend. . . . I'd like you to feel that I'm as loyal to you—as I am to him." He looked at me steadily, and I knew then I should never meet a man for whom I could feel more absolute trust.

"I like knowing you are my friend, Jim. If ever I need help I'll come to you."

Jim stood looking at me with a queer expression in his eyes. Then suddenly he fairly hurled a question at me—the oddest question, I thought, man ever addressed to woman in like circumstances.

"Connie—shall I ask your sister Betty to marry me?"

(Watch for the next instalment in this fine series.)

"Can I help you, Connie?" asked Jim Farley

Do You Know That—

It is the custom in Turkey for a hostess to put her entire wardrobe at the disposal of her feminine guests.

At a Chinese wedding the "beggar chief" is always invited; he brings a plate. He begs from all the guests, but in return keeps all other beggars from the scene of marriage feast. The beggar chief of a big Chinese city makes as much as $15,000 a year, and out of this he pays the common or street beggars to keep away from social gatherings.

The phrase "entente cordiale" was first used to express the friendly relations existing between France and England in 1843.

Easter Day cannot fall earlier than March 22 or later than April 25.

There is an exceptional demand for sign-painters all over London to paint out German names above the shops of alien traders and substitute British ones. Applications for permission to change names by deed poll have also increased enormously.

During the war with the Turks in 1807 Sir John Duckworth succeeded in getting to Constantinople despite the fact that his wooden vessels were assailed by the Turks with stone cannon balls so great that two men were required to roll one of them up a plank.

The Dardanelles are about thirty-three miles long. In places they are some four or five miles across, but in one place, the Narrows, they are only 1,100 yards from the mainland on the average width is about three miles.

In New Caledonia heads of infants are squeezed into different shapes, the faces of boys being lengthened to look like warriors and the girls' faces made oval by pressing up the chin.

No matter how old a Cossack is he belongs to the reserve forces of the "National Defence" in Russia, and, if required, accompanies his sons and grandsons to battle.

In the middle of the last century it was the correct thing to add to the marriage notice the amount of the fortune the bride brought to her husband.

The butterfly, like the bat, invariably goes to sleep head downwards on the stem of the grass on which it rests. It folds its wings to the stem, and thus protects its body from the cold.

People who have itched and scratched for years find sleep and rest soon after Cadum Ointment is applied. It is good for eczema, pimples, blotches, ulcers, eruptions, scaly skin, chafings, rash, etc.

It is really surprising how quickly Cadum Ointment relieves the torture and itching of skin troubles. It begins to heal an inflamed, irritated or diseased skin with the first application, and has proved a blessing to those who have suffered for years with distressing skin affections. 1oc. and 25c. a box. # HOME OF DANTE, THE POET, IS DAMAGED BY TEUTON SHELLS

By International News Service.

ROME, Sept. 15. — Asphyxiating gases and inflammable liquids are being used by the Austrians in the Plezzo Valley (Flitscher Klause) against the Italians. Official dispatches from the front today stated that the Austrians are using every means to beat back the Italian attacks against the Austrian works in the fortified defile.

A severe artillery duel is raging around Tolmino (Tolmein) fifteen miles southeast of Plezzo.

The historic old castle at Tolmino, in which Dante, the Italian poet, wrote some of the cantos of his Divine Comedy has been damaged by shells.

AUTOISTS SEEK HUB TRAFFIC SQUAD

Boston autoists today demand an auto traffic squad.

They condemn the Boston traffic system as the worst in the world.

Francis Hurtubise, Jr., chief counsel of the National Automobile Association, says that officers who now perform traffic duty pay too much attention to social calls with fair women in the middle of the street and too little to directing traffic. An organized, uniform system is what is needed, he says.

"A traffic squad should be organized, they say, with an able officer like Patrolman Bernard J. Hoppe at the head.

TALK WITH WOMEN.

Hoppe is the efficient citizen who directs traffic in Park square. Chester I. Campbell, Mayor of Quincy, leading autoist and hustler par excellence, describes Hoppe as "the ablest traffic officer in the world." Hurtubise agrees with Campbell on this point, as does William A. Thibodeau, counsel for the Automobile Legal Association. Charles M. Hosmer writes to the newspapers an appreciation of Hoppe's efficient work.

"There should be a traffic squad of from twenty-five to fifty men, properly organized, drilled and trained," said Mr. Hurtubise. "They should be placed under command of a captain, lieutenant or superior officer. They should be properly trained under a uniform system of signalling and the commanding officer should be privileged to transfer his men from place to place in any emergency.

"They should have a code of signalling. Today you can't tell what they mean when they put up their hands. Every man has a different signal of his own. Too many of them pay social calls with fair women in the middle of the streets while you stand there wondering which way to go and when.

"In the congested sections of Summer and Washington, Tremont and Boylston and similar streets the traffic squad officers should either be supplied with whistles to direct traffic or some form of signalling that every autoist would know.

"Boston is lagging behind every other big city in the world. Providence, Worcester and Springfield are some of the smaller places that are infinitely superior in traffic regulations. We not only have the worst streets but the worst conditions.

"I would point out Patrolman Hoppe as the officer equipped by training, experience and ability to head such a squad. He has a set of signals always the same. He has evidently studied his work. Others should do the same. There is never any congestion at Park square."

PATROLMAN BERNARD J. HOPPE, who, autoists say, is the most efficient director of traffic in Boston, halting autos and leading a child across the street.

"Personally Conducted" Economy Trips to California

If you can go to California in a comfortable through sleeping car, by the most interesting scenic route, at a great saving in expense, and in charge of a Special Conductor, paid to look after details and explain the points of interest, then why spend a lot of money on costly "Limited" train service? You can go on a Burlington Route "Personally Conducted" Party. That way is not only much more economical, but much more interesting as well. Through Colorado at no extra cost.

You will be interested in learning the expense of this trip is well within your reach. Just call or write and I will gladly explain all the details.

RUSSIANS TURN BACK TEUTONS IN GALICIA

PETROGRAD, Sept. 15.—Two sudden flanking movements by the Russians have put the entire Austro-German right wing in danger which threatens with disaster the great Teutonic invasion of Russia, according to latest reports received by the War Office.

South of the Pripet marshes, large German forces are retreating, pursued by the Russians, who have crossed the Goryn River and are pressing forward. Still farther south the Austro-German troops, forced to withdraw to the Strypa River, are finding it difficult to hold their positions.

In the fighting of the last three days, more than 13,000 prisoners have been taken by the Russians. The Austro-German armies are believed to have lost thrice that number killed and wounded.

General Ivanoff, commander of the southern Russian army, has executed a brilliant piece of strategy, according to the Petrograd military experts. Permitting the Austrian and German forces to advance to the Lutsk-Dubno line, he suddenly launched an offensive against the Teuton's left flank from the Pripet marshes, at the same time making a simular attack on the enemy's right from the Sereth River positions.

The Austro-German salient extending into Russian territory from northeastern Galicia immediately found itself in great difficulty. Retreat was found necessary. Only part of the Teuton army was been able to extricate itself, however.

Amsterdam, Sept. 15.—Dutch travelers arriving today from Antwerp state that the German military authorities intend closing Belgium to Dutch passenger traffic shortly. This indicates important troop movements in Belgium.

URGE BRITISH TO RELEASE U. S. IMPORTS

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The State Department again has directed the attention of the British Foreign Office to the enormous losses American importers are suffering through the failure of the allied governments to keep their promises of concessions whereby imports now in Holland can be sent through to the United States.

Leading importers are charging in letters to the State Department that there is an apparent connection between failure to act by the allies and the presence in this country of Anglo-French financiers who are negotiating a credit loan. While the department does not accept this as a fact, it nevertheless has demanded of London that the promises already made be kept.

The explanation made by the British embassy here to Trade Adviser Fleming is that the French government has interposed objections. Should Ambassador Page confirm this, it is expected that Ambassador Sharp at Paris will be asked to make representations to the French government along similar lines to those already made in London.

The situation is serious because many of the importers accepting the promise of the State Department that their goods could be released have entered into delivery contracts.

Regulations for bringing to this country of goods of Belgian origin have reached the State Department. They compel purchasers to secure affidavit that the goods are of Belgian origin or manufacture and the purchase money must be deposited in a British bank, to remain during the continued occupancy of Belgium by the Germans.

Winthrop Man Is 100 Years Old Today

Daniel Hollinger today celebrated his 100th birthday at the home of Mrs. Henry B. Fiske, No. 75 Main street, Winthrop, where he has lived for the last twenty-six years.

"Grandpa" Hollinger, as he is known to the children of Winthrop, still takes his daily stroll about town, except in the stormiest weather. He is said to be the oldest Mason in the United States.

Winthrop's centenarian was born in Germany, September 15, 1815.

London Theatre Hours Changed by Zeppelins

LONDON, Sept. 15.—A number of London theatres announce that evening performances will begin at 7 o'clock and close at 9.45. The explanation is given that closing at an earlier hour enables people to reach home before Zeppelins could appear.

The theatre taking the initiative says its patrons are able to come an hour sooner and says it believes the public will approve in view of the fact that if a bomb struck the building, terrific disaster would ensue.

Portugal 'Ready to Declare War on the Germans'

ROME, Sept. 15.—It is believed here in diplomatic circles that the recent revolutions in Portugal were fomented by German agents. Portugal soon will declare war on Germany. Some of the German ships in Portuguese waters already have been seized, according to reports. The Lisbon government, it is said, has proof that Portugal has sent strong expeditionary forces to its colonies which border on German possessions in Africa.

Fourth $50,000,000 Gold Shipment from Allies Via Bangor

BANGOR, Me., Sept. 15.—Arrangements are being made by the railroads and the American Express Company for the transportation from Halifax to New York of the fourth consignment of gold and securities from London to strengthen the allies' war credits in this country.

It is expected that the steel train will be sent East in a day or two. The amount of this consignment is not definitely known here, but it is said to be not far from $50,00,000.

SEARCH LAPLAND CLOSELY FOR FIRE BOMBS

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Estro guards watched pier No. 61 in the North River today while the White Star liner Lapland was searched from stem to stern, following the discovery of two tubes of acid, evidently designed as incendiary bombs to set the ship on fire when she was at sea.

Since the fire upon the Santa Anna, shipping companies are taking greater precautions to guard against incendiary and explosive bombs than at any time since the war.

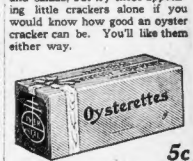

The Lapland, one of the largest liners now engaged in the transatlantic trade, was scheduled to sail today with a big cargo of war supplies for the allies. The acid containers, which were found on a ledge of hatch No. 2 by private detectives late yesterday afternoon, are now in the possession of Owen Egan of the police bureau of combustibles, who is making an analysis.

MORE GIRLS ENTER FOR SWIM

FILL THIS OUT.

Please enter me in Girls' Championship Swim.

NAME.....

AGE.....

ADDRESS.....

More for the Saturday swim.

More entries, more enthusiasm, more and more people who are setting the date aside for the sight.

This refers to the Boston AMERICAN'S eleventh annual swimming race for girls for the open championship of New England. The race will take place on the Charles River Basin next Saturday afternoon at 3.30.

As in previous years this race will show the cream of the girl swimmers of the six New England States and will attract thousands upon thousands of spectators.

It always has and apparently it always will.

ALL GIRLS ELIGIBLE.

Girls who have competed in previous races are, of course, eligible for this race. Many of these are entered.

The Swimming Editor finds that five girls who were in last year's race, have moved from their 1914 addresses. Notices of the race may not have reached these five girls. They are Ruth Barton, Frances Davis, Alice Kelly, M. E. Middleton and Helen Spellman.

They are now notified that they may enter this year if they wish, the same as other former contestants.

The following six girls have entered their names, but without addresses or ages: Anna Barry, Esther Burns, Theresa Draper, Josephine Driscoll, Millie Harte and Josephine Ryan. Will they please send in their addresses and ages immediately.

RACE FOR MEN.

There is one change in the list of officials. Leo Handy will serve as one of the judges in the place of J. E. McCullough.

Attention is called to the extra feature of this year's annual event. It will be preceded by a mighty interesting race for men. At 2 o'clock the annual three-mile swim for the open championship of New England will be held in the Charles River Basin under the auspices of the N. E. A. A. U. This is always an exciting swimming event.

Spectators for the AMERICAN race for girls at 3.30, who are early enough on the scene, will see the men's race.

The course is one of the best in the country, for both swimmers and spectators. The basin water is smooth. From the broad esplanades that line the basin and the splendid bridges which span it perfect views may be obtained of the entire event. Do not delay your entry.

4 Years at Harvard for $362 a Year

The Harvard University authorities have compiled statistics that prove an undergraduate can spend four years in getting a Harvard education at the cost of only $1,400, or about $362 a year. The college authorities admit that this is a very low estimate and does not include laboratory charges, books, clothing and washing, membership in societies and other small incidentals. A moderate annual expenditure at Harvard is placed at $768 and a liberal one at $969.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRIGON.

Manager Harry N. Pyke of the Chalmers Motor Car Company is to hold open house at his Commonwealth avenue salesroom on Friday. He received yesterday a trainload shipment of seventy-five 6-40 and 6-45 Chalmers cars and has invited his New England dealers to come to Boston and learn about the Detroit organization, meet factory representatives, enjoy a real dinner on the shore and then drive home, making in all what might be called a drive-away day.

All the New England dealers have been invited to appear at the salesroom between 9 and 9.30 o'clock, at which latter time cars will be taken for a drive along the South Shore to the Breaden Cheese Club at Nantasket. Here dinner will be served and the dealers will have the pleasure of meeting Vice-President C. A. Paffer, Sales Manager Paul Smith, Territorial Manager Frank Willis and W. J. Dumpelmann, all of whom are coming from the factory for this special drive-away day. Manager Pyke has made extensive arrangements for the reception and entertaining of the guests.

The entry list for the Narragansett Park 100-mile sweepstake and for the races on Saturday next is one of the classiest that has ever been secured for any of the long distance events upon the speedways of this country, including, as it does, Ralph De Palma, Bob Burman, the Bergdoll brothers, Jessop, Vail, O'Donnell and Mulford. The cars and drivers entered are as follows: Stutz, Ralph De Palma; Maxwell, Eddie Rickenbacher; Peugeot, Bob Burman; Erwin 66, Oscar Bergdoll; Erwin 40, Erwin Bergdoll; Bugatti, Charles Basle; Duesenberg, Willie Haupt; Duesenberg, Ed O'Donnell; Duesenberg, Peter Henderson; Stutz, Joseph W. Dickenson; Mulford Special, Earl Vail; Crawford, Tom Alley; Chevrolet, G. C. Jessop; Mercedes, Paul Sartori; Sunbeam, Harry Grant; National Jonnes Connelly; National J. A. Myers; Stutz, Louis Sorrell; Push Rod, Tommy Special, Jack Le Cain; Peugeot, Walter Jones; Peugeot, Mulford.

A special prize totaling $10,000 is offered in the big event, $4,000 going to the winner, and the remaining $6,000 being divided as follows: $2,000, $1,000, $700, $600, $500 and $300. The twenty-five-mile race, free for all, should prove a particularly interesting and exciting event, while the motorcycle racing will signort the best drivers in that field.

THIS EXPLAINS IT ALL.

Bull Neck Moran, Mike Swansep, Plum Duff McCarty and Squinty McGinnis drew straws to see who would go into the cave after the captain and Red Dog Pinney. Mike Swansen got the shortest straw. Plum Duff McCarty got a brilliant idea. He made a long, strong rope out of very tough vines, tied one end around Mike Swansen's waist and paid it out as he went into the cave. When he found the captain he was to jerk three times on it as a signal to his pals that all was safe. Look at what happened! Now, who's going to get poor Mike out? See to-morrow's paper.

REJECT KEITH'S PLEA FOR AUTO LICENSE

Carey Keith of Quincy, who was convicted in the lower courts of operating his automobile while under the influence of liquor, was today denied his application for the return of his auto license by the Massachusetts Highway Commission.

The commission learned from the investigators that Keith's fifteen-year-old son, Chester Keith, had an auto license and it not only ordered the boy to return his license forthwith, but also demanded Keith to turn in the registration card of the family machine.

$20,000,000 of British Gold at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—More British gold, nearly $5,500,000 in sovereigns, is due to arrive here today on the Oceanic liner Sonoma from Australian bankers. Bankers here will handle it directly to the mint for re-coinage.

Including today's shipment, the total of British money received here from Australia and New Zealand since June 30 approximates $20,000,000. Early next month $5,000,000 is expected.

WAKEFIELD FAIR OPENS WITH BIG CARD

Today is the opening day of the Quannapowitt Agricultural Association's big fair at the Wakefield-Reading fair grounds. The schools of Reading are closed to permit the pupils to attend. Business houses in Wakefield and Reading are also closed for the same purpose. From today until Saturday night all roads will lead to the fair grounds.

Balloon ascensions, open air concerts by the Schubert Male Quartet, aeroplane flights, poultry shows, a monster hygienic baby show, exhibitions by the granges, exhibitions by the school children of all surrounding towns, a big midway and other features go to make the fair one of the best. Horse races will be held every afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock and a vaudeville show will be given from a stage opposite the grandstand.

Tomorrow will be Governor's Day and Governor Walsh is to give an address. An auto show, athletics and horse hacing are on the program. Friday will be Grange Day with an address by State Master Edward Chapman. Saturday there will be a big program of field sports, motor cycle and bicycle races and in intercity race meeting for nearby horsemen.

CANNOT CHANGE EXAMINATIONS AT HARVARD

President Lowell of Harvard today sent S. H. Borofsky a letter reaffirming his refusal to make allowance for Jewish boys who wish to take the Harvard entrance examinations, but are prevented because some of the examinations fall on Saturday, the Jewish Day of Atonement.

President Lowell's attitude in the letter was that to change the date would inconvenience a much larger number of boys than those who suffer under the present date, and that the work of preparing a separate examination paper would be unwarranted.

Mr. Borofsky is one of a committee of leading Jewish men who have attempted to modify the Harvard attitude.

PRESIDENT LOWELL'S LETTER.

President Lowell's letter follows:

Samuel H. Borofsky, Esq.:

My Dear Sir—The more I reflect upon the question of the examination of September 18, the clearer the proper course seems to me to be. It would certainly not be right, for the sake of a very small number of candidates to change the date for a large number who have long laid their plan accordingly, and who might be put to very serious inconvenience or even prevented from taking the examination altogether.

Nor is there good reason for preparing an additional examination, which is far more laborious and exacting than outsiders suppose. The candidates for entrance to college have two opportunities to pass the examinations—in June and in September—and a boy who chooses to put off his trial until September must take his chance of being able to pass then. He is given no additional opportunity even in case of illness. Surely the boy who is prevented by religious principles, and who puts off his examination until a date which he knew, or might have ascertained, conflicted with his sacred day, has no better claim than a boy who puts it off and then has an illness which he could not have foreseen. So long as we give a choice of two dates, one of which is open to no objection, it would seem that we are doing enough.

Yours very truly,
A. LAWRENCE LOWELL.
Cotuit, September 14.

MR. BOROFSKY'S COMMENT.

Mr. Borofsky, in comment on the letter, said:

"President Lowell's letter, received this morning in answer to communications sent him protesting against having the Harvard entrance examinations on the Jewish Day of Atonement, does not satisfy the remonstrants. We stand as strongly as ever for our contention and cannot cease petitioning until the last vestige of hope has been relinquished.

"We greatly appreciate this morning's editorial in the Boston AMERICAN and I shall send a copy immediately to President Lowell by special delivery.

"If Harvard fails to recognize our most holy day and many youths of tender age rather than lose a year in the university take the examination on our sacred Day of Atonement, it will be looked upon as another dangerous wedge which may open the way to the future desecration of our most sacred beliefs, which are responsible for the continued home life of our people.

"No conscientious Jew will eat, drink or perform any unnecessary work on that day. The observance is not ranked as a Jewish custom, but as one of the secred laws.

"When President Lowell speaks of a rule in Harvard University which deprives a boy who is ill from taking his examinations, he speaks in ignorance of facts. I happen to know of cases when special examinations have been given in cases of illness."

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks opened today about as they did yesterday with strength and activity confined to the war order group. Rails were irregular and coppers were quiet. Bethlehem Steel opened at 350, its highest record price. Erie common sold at its highest for this year soon afterwards. Crucible was active and also attained a record high price. U. S. Steel opened off, recovered and advanced. Aside from munition issues the market was uncertain in trend and tinged with nervousness. It is said that big interests are bullish but room traders are not. The public is again holding aloof. Reports from Washington as to the international situation add to doubt. Everybody is waiting to learn what is going to be done in regard to the British and French loan.

Trading in New York at the start was about on the same scale as it has previously been this week. The market is very professional just now. No great activity is looked for until the foreign credits question is settled, unless something unforseen happens. But this is a time when the unexpected must be figured upon as an important contingent in speculation. The decline in exports recently is being used as an argument that Anglo-French envoys ought to be supported strenuously by business interests in their borrowing mission. But there is going to be a strong objection raised to loaning a billion or more dollars on their terms. The matter may hang fire for some time.

PRICE RANGE WAS NARROW.

The price range was narrow in all classes of securities in early trading. At 10:15 in New York gains included Allis-Chalmers ⅜, American Can ¼, Beet Sugar ¾, Car & Foundry ½, American Locomotive ¾, Baldwin ½, Bethlehem 1, Colorado Fuel ⅜, Crucible 1¼, Studebaker ¼, Westinghouse ½, Tennessee Copper 1, Utah ⅝, Anaconda ½, Baltimore & Ohio ¼, Canadian Pacific ¼ and New York Central ½.

Among declines were American Smelting ¼, Rock Island ⅛, Union Pacific ⅜, Southern Pacific ⅛ and Atchison ¼.

COPPERS HIGHER HERE.

The Boston market was a little more active than it has ruled of late. The improvement was due to more trading in coppers. They were helped here as well as in New York by a resumption of metal buying at 18 cents a pound, the price the producers have been holding out for. News of strikes at mines was another factor, pointing to a possible curtailment of production.

Among early gains in Boston were Calumet & Arizona ¼, Copper Range ¼, Tamarack 1½, Butte & Superior 1, American Zinc ¼ and Woolen preferred ¼.

Alaska Gold was off ⅛. Gulf preferred ¾ and United Fruit ½.

The cut in the price of lead by American Smelting indicates that buying slumped when the recent advance was made by the largest producer. There was little said about spelter this morning.

STOCKS WERE SCARCE.

Stocks were scarce in the New York market at the opening, according to advices. One statement is: "The chief feature of the market was the scant offerings of stocks except at advances. But outside buying was not increased, and there was still a disposition to regard both the diplomatic situation and the outlook for the foreign loan as uncertain."

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Following are the early prices for leading New York stocks:

| | High | Low | 10:15 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Allis-Chalmers | 43½ | 42⅝ | 43½ |
| Am. Can | 59¾ | 59½ | 59½ |

| Am. Locomotive | 54 | 54 | 54 |
| Am. Sm. & R. | 81 | 80⅝ | 80¾ |
| Am. Beet Sugar | 66 | 66 | 66 |
| Anaconda Cop. | 71½ | 71¼ | 71¼ |
| Atch. T. & S. F. | 101⅛ | 101¼ | 101¼ |
| Baldwin Loco. | 80⅝ | 80¼ | 80¾ |
| Balt. & Ohio | 83½ | 83½ | 83½ |
| Beth. Steel | 350 | 350 | 350 |
| Canadian Pac. | 154 | 154 | 154 |
| Col. Fuel | 46½ | 46½ | 46½ |
| Crucible Steel | 96⅝ | 96 | 96¼ |
| Dis. Securities | 26⅞ | 26⅞ | 26⅞ |
| Erie | 30½ | 30¼ | 30¼ |
| Goodrich | 63¾ | 63 | 63¾ |
| Mex. Petrol. | 85 | 84½ | 84½ |
| N. Y. Air Brake | 146 | 145 | 145⅞ |

Fall 35 Feet by Collapse of Staging

Two carpenters shingling a roof at No. 10 Granville avenue, Medford, were seriously injured today by falling thirty-five feet when a staging collapsed. They are Axel Spaquist, Stanwood street, Roxbury, and Henry Flibotte, Riverside avenue, Medford. Flibotte's condition is critical.

SPEAR URGES 150 SUBMARINES FOR U. S.

A defensive fleet of 150 submarines for the United States as an adequate protection for its coast lines, the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands and the Panama Canal is urged by President L. Y. Spear of the Electric Boat Company, who was present at the launching yesterday of the M-1 at the Fore River shipyards. He said the boats could be provided at an average cost of $500,000. The Fore River Company built the M-1, America's largest and most powerful submarine, for the Electric Boat Company, under sub-contract.

President Spear declares that submarines have "enormous advantages over other forms of mobile or fixed defences," and adds that the United States has allowed other nations to outstrip her in the building of undersea craft. He says a foreign power has adopted a type of submarine which is "still under consideration by our government." President Spear said:

"There should be at least one fleet submarine attached to each battleship, and, when the torpedo boat destroyer is displaced by them, flotillas of fleet submarines which operate independently. These flotillas should be often of ten submarines, each of the type of the Schley, now building, and even more powerful than the M-1.

"Submarines of the largest types can be manned with fewer than twenty men, providing at least two or three shifts, and housing them as comfortably as is possible in any small vessel.

"The United States has allowed other nations to outstrip her in this economical branch of defence. Yet it was here the submarine first was made practicable. A submarine still under consideration by our government has been tried out by a foreign government and soon will be in service. This submarine is 235 feet long, has two guns mounted forward, four torpedo tubes and a radius of 3,000 miles, with a reserve of 4,000 miles more. Twenty submarines could protect Chesapeake Bay."

Twin Dead from Dose of Potash

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 15.—Louis Mayo, a year old twin, died at the Portsmouth Hospital today as a result of eating potash in the kitchen of its parents' home at Ogunquit, Me. The baby is survived by his twin sister, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mayo.

MUST PAY $4000 ON ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Mrs. Edna May Harbroe of Buzzard's Bay wins $4,000 under a decision of Judge Braley of the Supreme Court today. Judge Bipley dismissed a petition of the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, which sought to have set aside a verdict of the Superior Court in Mrs. Harbroe's favor.

Mrs. Harbroe is the widow of William A. Harbroe, night watchman on the Buzzard's Bay bridge over the Cape Cod Canal, who was fatally shot last October when he and a bridge drawtender were mistaken for two bandits. The Massachusetts Industrial Accident Board awarded Mrs. Harbroe $9.33 a week for a period of 428 weeks and a fraction of a week. This award was affirmed by the Superior Court, and the Maryland insurance company asked that this be reversed.

Harbroe was in the employ of the Frust-Clark Construction Company. On the night of October 9 last the postoffice at Bourne was robbed by two men and the county authorities were notified. Two officers gave chase. Hearing two men talking, one of the officers called out: "I am an officer—hands up!"

All four men—officers and watchman and drawtender—opened fire, each pair believing the other pair were the postoffice robbers. Harbroe, who died several hours later, said he had heard the "hands up" part of the county officers' command, but had not heard the other part. He said he thought he was being accosted by the robbers. In the confusion that followed the accidental shooting the robbers escaped.

South Carolina to Be "Dry" from Jan. 1

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 15.—South Carolina will be dry on Jan. 1, 1916, as the result of the State-wide prohibition election yesterday. Nearly complete unofficial returns today showed the vote in favor of prohibition 33,104 to 14,157 against. All of the 30 counties already dry under the local option plan voted for prohibition.

French Expenditures $13,000,000 Daily

PARIS, Sept. 15.—During the last quarter of the year the expenditures of the French government probably will run in excess of $13,000,000 a day.

We Thank the Generous Folk Who Loaned Their Heirlooms for the Old Time Fashions Exhibit

Which Is One of the Individualities of

Our Anniversary Week

THE clothes of long ago in this exhibit include not only clothes of the old belles and beaux, but clothes of the babies—for people have sent in little yellowed linen hand-made shirts, caps and aprons.

SPEAKING of fashions and babies, an old daguerreotype in the exhibit shows a handsome, old-fashioned grandmother in a coal-hod bonnet with a baby who doesn't look in the least old-fashioned. Babies must have looked the same 10,000 years ago. People didn't 30 years ago—wait until you see these clothes.

A GEOGRAPHICAL glimpse at the display shows a funny old cap basket from England, an embroidered cashmere shawl worn by a Southern belle in the 60's, a dinky, dainty parasol brought "over" by an old Salem sea-captain,—a watch made in Sweden in 1637, a jetted black jersey jacket from Petersburg, Virginia; a wedding dress from Scotland, a 75-year-old Spanish mantella, a 65-year-old East Indian shawl, a 100-year-old satin shawl from London, a yellow vest worn in the times of Napoleon by a gentleman in Cheshire, England.

THE exhibit includes a watch 278 years old, a Paisley shawl, earrings, buckles, and a black lace shawl, 200 years old; several women's dresses 100 and 150 years old, a night cap 100 years old, a snuff box 230 years old, an old calash 150 years old, and a quilted sleighing hood 125 years old.

Among the curious things are a hair bracelet with an exquisite cameo clasp, an old sewing companion, a stamped linen "Sunday Lesson," lace mitts and stockings, a towel 100 years old and several fine wedding dresses.

Other Individualities of our Anniversary

A Living Model Show—of wearable clothes at popular prices, quite a different thing from the usual Fashion Show of extreme styles.
(Daily at 10:30 and 2:30, Sixth Floor)

Doll Show, doll house and model play room.
(Babies' Shops, Third Floor)

Model Play Room and wardrobe for girls.
(Fourth Floor)

Other Exhibits—of unusual and antique merchandise throughout the store.

Special Choralcelo Music.
(Restaurant and Street Floor)

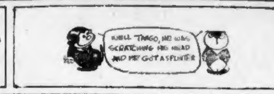

Sightseeing Tours—Throughout the store from the wireless station on the roof to the boiler room in the sub basement. (Leave Personal Service Bureau, street floor balcony, hourly from 9 to 4.)

THE OLD TIME FASHION EXHIBIT is found in the shop windows facing on the "Streets of Filene" on several upper floors. Behind these shop windows the Filene Shops are gay with their Formal Opening Showing of the styles of the hour. The two exhibits afford a rare opportunity for the study of fashion evolution and contrasts.

Commission Meets; There's No Squawks

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The State Boxing Commission at its weekly meeting yesterday informally discussed the McFarland-Gibbons fight and announced it had nothing to say on the subject, as no complaint had been received.

The commissioners failed to mention the subject fo referees' decisions and there is little chance that the present commission will pass the rule.

Rheumatism Easily Relieved By Cleansing the Blood

S. S. S. Gives Quick Relief by Toning Up the Blood

Yes, but how? A natural question. The answer is that you must cleanse your blood by stimulating it to healthy, vigorous action, so that it will throw off the germs and impurities that cause Rheumatism. The action of the wonderful blood purifier, S. S. S., is to practically renew the life blood, give it vigor, stimulate the flow making it throw out the germs and the poison impurities. The excruciating pains of Rheumatism, whether it is the shooting, stabbing Sciatica, the gripping agony of muscular Rheumatism, or aching arms and legs that break up sleep will be entirely relieved by S. S. S. Don't use nostrums and drugs. Take the blood bath—Nature's blood tonic, S. S. S. Get it at any druggist, but insist upon S. S. S. Send for booklet, "What the Mirror Tells," or if yours is a peculiar case, write S. S. S. Co., Atlanta, Ga., but begin treatment at once.

RED SOX WIND UP CHICAGO SERIES

By RIGHT FIELD

The Red Sox and Braves won together again yesterday, keeping up the week's clean sheet at the expense of Chicago's two all-in, down-and-out ball clubs.

The Tigers and Phillies also copped.

But the Robins were ruffled and now the Braves are back in second place, as the appended figures show.

Braves .53731.
Robins .53676.

As far as the big, momentus question goes, towit: the Championship.

The Red Sox continue leading the Tigers by a fraction over three games. With the Braves [illegible] lengths to the rear of the Phillies.

Good news for [illegible] fans" is the departure of "Rabbit" Maranville, shortstop extraordinary and baseball writer par excellence, for St. Louis. He says he's practically sound again and banks upon getting in tomorrow's opening game with the Cardinals.

Today's card is the same as yesterday's. The Red Sox and White Sox wind up their current series at Fenway Park, while the Braves get through for the year with the Cubs out in Chicago.

Grand Circuit Winners.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 15.—Grand Circuit winners: Messina Springs Driving Club stake for 2-year-old trotters, Sunloch (Jones); 2:07 pace, Single G. (Gosnell); 2:14 pace, Camelia (Cox); sweepstakes for 3-year-old trotters, Eudora Spier (White); 2:19 trot, Almah (Carpenter), 2:05 trot, Margaret Druien (Cox).

'Nother Rookie for Sox.

Anderson, the Lehigh University pitcher, who twirled semi-pro ball at Skowhegan, Me., this Summer, is being tried out by Manager Carrigan of the Red Sox.

"THE RABBIT'S" COLUMN BY Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

THE Western clubs will have to stop the rush of the Phillies if the Braves are to win the National League pennant again. We have been playing slashing ball since Braves Field was dedicated August 18, but we have been unable to overhaul the flying Phils. Whenever we win, they also seem to grab off a victory. On the few occasions we have lost of late, the Phillies have been fortunate enough to breeze in a winner.

I DO not wish to infer that we have given up hope of winning the pennant. Such is not the case. We are still very much in the flag chase. If the Phillies were to take a slump, while we have a run of victories we would be right on their heels. We have also a big series still to play with Moran's team. Four games are down on the cards. They will be played in Boston and should furnish plenty of thrills.

* * *

THE Braves have been followed by a jinx all season. We have had more players out of the game from time to time than either the Phillies or Dodgers, the two clubs which are giving us a fight for the pennant in the dear old National League merry-go-round. When I was informed that Fred Snodgass was spiked in Chicago, I was forced to admit that we seem to be followed by some kind of a mysterious jinx. But as every member of our team is a fighter, we have no intention of giving up the battle.

* * *

THE asking of waivers on Fred Clarke, manager of the Pirates, marks the passing from baseball of one of the real leaders in the game. Clarke has been a mighty figure in the National pastime. He was a star player when at his best, while he also won everlasting fame as a manager. Clarke has finally decided to quit baseball. He has many other business interests which require his attention and does not believe he can afford to devote six months each year to baseball.

* * *

SHERWOOD MAGEE'S terrific batting has played a prominent part in the work of the Braves the past six weeks. His deadly wallops have knocked in many runs and started numerous rallies which have terminated in Boston victories. Magee is one of the most natural batters in the big leagues. He hits the ball harder than any man on our club, and when he lands on the seam of the pill it usually soars far into the outfield.

* * *

MAGEE is famous as a batter, but he is also a pretty nifty fielder. He covers a tremendous amount of ground and has the courage to try for almost impossible catches. Magee's arm is not as good as it used to be, but he is still able to throw as well as the average big league outfielder.

TYLER CARDED TO PITCH CUB FINAL

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—The plucky Boston Braves are quite certain that they will win today and make it four out of five in their last stand in Chicago. It looks like Tyler against Humphries.

They beat Lavender, 7 to 1, yesterday, and he was the pitcher they feared. The dapper spit-ball twirler has been going great guns in his last few starts, but the Braves got to him in great shape in the fourth round and when that was over it was very evident that Lavender wouldn't stop them.

Mack After Peploski.

SOUTH ORANGE, Sept. 15.—Joe Peploski, captain and crack pitcher of the Seton Hall College nine two seasons ago, is considering the offer from Connie Mack and has suspended his intention to resume the study of law at the University of Pennsylvania.

Rabbit Is Off to St Louis; Ready for the Big Drive

"Rabbit" Maranville, the Braves' famous shortstop, left for St. Louis last night and stated before leaving he was confident he would be able to get in tomorrow's opening contest with the Cardinals.

This forms the best of news. The Braves, despite their crippled state, are battling gamely. They moved into second place yesterday, and if they keep up their current work, will land close to the Phillies if the Morans will only totter.

Who knows but that the Braves Phillies skirmishes at Allston,

Waivers Are Asked On Old Fred Clarke

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15.—President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh Nationals, has asked waivers on Fred Clarke. The owner of the Pirates wishes to honor one of the most successful managers of the game with unconditional release. Clarke has been held by a playing contract and it is necessary to get the consent of all the major clubs before he can receive honorable discharge.

Clarke handed in his resignation a week ago. He intends to retire to his 2,500 acre ranch at Winfield, Kansas.

September 29, 30 and October 1, 2, will determine the championship. Mayhaps Our Boys will win the right, then and there, to clash with the Red Sox in the big blue-ribbon show.

Prince Albert just does this little old thing:

Lets you smoke a jimmy pipe all you want to; lets you smoke all you want of roll 'em cigarettes! And that holds good every hour of the twenty-four, Sundays included! Talk about home tobacco, or office tobacco, or street tobacco, or traveling tobacco! Well, you just uncork some P. A. smoke in your mouth! You'll feel like putting out a Special Extra to spread the news! Patented process fixes that—and cuts out bite and parch!

When we tell you, and men everywhere say, that here's tobacco that reaches every desire in your pipe or makin's department, you head for the national joy smoke

Constantly, men who have earned their spurs as smokers are being chosen members of the Prince Albert "Old Time Jimmy Pipers Club." Here is J. H. Hill, of 2?8 W. 82nd Street, New York City, who has known the daily joys of a jimmy pipe since he was 17 years old. Mr. Hill is enjoying his sixty-seventh summer.

Down the lane you'll find the store that sells Prince Albert. Toppy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound humidors—and—that classy crystal-glass humidor with the sponge-moistener top that'll just tickle you—it's so nifty looking and keeps the tobacco so cheerful-like.

You can smoke a pipe and you will smoke a pipe just as soon as you get windward of some P. A.! For it's real man tobacco that just-jams-joy into jimmy pipes, and puts the merry sunshine into makin's cigarettes!

Now, let everybody sit-in on this tobacco talk and discuss it, pro and con, then get a supply and all hands smoke up! For P. # WILLARD WRITES OF OLD TIME RING MEN

By JESS WILLARD.
HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION OF THE WORLD.

ight 1915, by A. Merritt. All Rights Reserved.

As I read the accounts of the Gibbons-McFarland battle the other day I could not help thinking of the wonderful advance the boxing game has made in the last thirty years. Today the game is clean. The boys battle in the ring try by science and strength to knockout their opponents, but as soon as the scrap is over there seldom is any unfriendliness between them.

McFarland went into the ring not only for the $17,500 he received for his work, but because he figured it an honor to outpoint Gibbons. And Mike was there not only for his $15,000 but to show if he could that he was a better man than Packey. When it was over they shook hands. Today they admire each other.

But it wasn't like that in the old days. A fighter thirty years ago fought because he hated an opponent, and a beaten man always held it in for his conqueror afterward.

Take the case of the famous street fight between Bill Pool and John Morrisey. These men figured conspicuously in early championship days of the American prize ring. Both were very popular in New York city and it was a question which was the better heavyweight. Still they never got together until one night Poole's friends gave a grand ball in his behalf.

STARTED TROUBLE AT BALL.

Morrisey and his followers attended the ball and started trouble the minute they got in the ball. Morrisey walked up to Poole and challenged him to fight right then and there. Because of the presence of women Poole's friends asked that the fight be put off until morning. Morrisey agreed. Each man put up a $50 forfeit to appear at the Amos street dock early in the morning.

They were on hadn before sunrise. There was no ring, but by general consent the crowd kept a space open for the struggle. The battle started with each man sparring lightly, but ever on the lookout for an opening. For five minutes there was very little action.

Finally Morrisey made a rush, but Poole side-stepped him and as Morrisey swung with a heavy right Bill seized his man by the ankles. Then he threw John completely over his head. They fell to the ground, with Poole on top. The escene which followed was almost an indescribable one.

With grips of steel they clutched, butted, bit, pounded and gouged one another without cessation. Morrisey could never shake Bill off. For fully thirty minutes the battling was terrible. Both men were stripped of their clothes, their faces cut to ribbons and their bodies bruised and bleeding from the rocks they fought on.

At the end of half an hour Morrisey was faintly heard to cry.

"I'm satisfied! I've had enough!"

POOLE BADLY BEATEN.

When Poole had allowed Morrisey to get up he was frightfully punished. He had to wipe the blood from his eyes before he could see to walk. Poole had received a terrible mauling, too. His worst hurt was a great gash in the cheek where Morrisey was said to have bitten him.

Poole undoubtedly was one of the greatest rough and tumble fighters that ever lived. Soon after his victory over Morrisey, Bill Travers ran into Poole at a ball the latter gave. Travers was sure he could take Bill's number. He challenged and was accepted. As soon as the dancing broke up the figters and their friends went down to Barrow street in New York city. In a blue-stone yard they stripped and started fighting.

For nearly an hour they grappled all over the ground. The chips of stone cut their clothing to rags and gashed their bodies like razors. As the morning broke Poole won. When it was all over Travers had lost an eye, and Poole acknowledged years later it was his hardest battle.

Poole was a typical fighter of the eighties. I described these two fights to show how brutal the game was then. Today, we never see any such brawls. Its science now that wins for a man.

And the best things about boxing today is taat you seldom hear of a good fighter getting into brawls. I'll bet McFarland and Gibbons could not be coaxed into a barroom fight. They are clean-living chaps who will go miles out of their way to avoid trouble.

BOXING OF GREAT HELP.

It's a great thing to be able to protect yourself, but I don't believe in looking for trouble.

There are a lot of high-class men in the boxing business these days. Where could you find a finer lot of boys than Gibbons, McFarland, Charley White, Freddie Welsh, Johnny Dundee, Johnny Griffiths, Leach Cross, Jim Coffey, Charley Weinert, Johnny Kilbane, Johnny Coulon and a score of other lads who are making their living in the ring?

I am anxiously awaiting the outcome of the Frank Moran-Jim Coffey fight that is to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York city, October 19. I can't figure out which man will win. I have asked many experts about the scrap and they all differ.

I hope that it won't be a close finish. I want to see one man win by a wide enough margin to prove that he is good enough to give me a tussle.

I wish that I could see that scrap. I am sure that it will be a corker. But I can't quit the show business until the first of November and so will have to be satisfied with the newspaper reports.

Ireland Produces Splendid Fighters

To Ireland belongs the credit of having produced twenty-three really great ring fighters. Quite a tidy number from one island, especially when the importance of some of them, in their own game, is considered.

Jess Willard talks about and gives a list of them in his next article in the AMERICAN, which will appear September 18.

He also tells why western fighters are a hardier lot than their eastern brothers.

Wright Among the Victors.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15. — Irving Wright of Boston, Clarence Griffin and Elia Fottrell of San Francisco, and Nat Emerson of Memphis, have advanced to the semi-finals in the Tristate tennis tournament. Mrs. Louis Feid, Jr., of Chicago is the first woman to win her way into the semi-finals. Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the Norwegian player, defeated Miss Evelyn Luers of Cincinnati in straight sets.

SANDY LOSES TO LEVINSKY IN ROUGH GO

ATLAS A. A. RESULTS.

"Battling" Levinsky, Philadelphia, defeated "Sandy" Ferguson, Chelsea; twelve rounds.

George Alger, Cambridge, defeated "Belgium" Brown, Boston; eight rounds.

Cy Goodwin, South End, defeated "Young" Clancy, North End; six rounds.

"Young" Cooper, Providence, and "Young" Scrollard, Fall River, six rounds to a draw.

THE gridiron lost a whale of a football player when "Sandy" Ferguson decided to earn a livelihood in the ring instead of going out and striving for honors at some sort of a dear old alma mater.

Charley "Boots" Brickley, in his palmiest days, never gave a better exhibition of line plunging, tackling and straight hand work than Chelsea's eccentric citizen did in his twelve-round frolic with "Battling" Levinsky of Philadelphia and Broadway at the Atlas A. A. last night.

When the merry chimes informed the sasembled multitude that the cruel comedy was over, Referee Power decided that Levinsky had won by a margin of three field goals and one safety. Ferguson plunged through the line for a couple of dozen touchdowns, but was penalized on numerous occasions for fighting with his head instead of using his noble fists for dealing out punishment.

IF Ferguson had entered college as a young man, Boston fistic lovers would probably not have been forced to watch him in action last night. He was hissed and booed by the "fans" at the Atlas Club for his rough-house work, but if he had pulled the same kind of tactics on a college gridiron while battling for his dear old alma mater he would have been hailed as a hero, carried around the college campus on the shoulders of his admirers and finally dubbed a jolly good fellow. It was, indeed, a sad mistake on Ferguson's part when he turned his back on Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and the other big colleges.

IT was a joy to watch "Sandy" in his line plunges. He was a little slow in charging, but it was a regular merry-go-round after he once grabbed Levinsky around the neck. The battling person fought a clean bout and managed to breeze in a winner by boxing cleverly at long range.

THE Chelsea heavyweight was beaten badly, but would have received an even worse setback if Levinsky were not bothered by blood flowing from a cut over his left eyebrow. Ferguson caused the trouble when he butted his opponent with his head. He then made it his duty to see that the claret kept flowing from the wound, from the fourth session when the trouble started, until the final shot had been fired.

FERGUSON held Levinsky in almost every round. He evidently thought that the "White Hope" destroyer was going to leave him.

According to the official "dope," Ferguson knocked Levinsky down in the ninth frame. Morgan's fighter was off his balance when "Sandy" scored with a left hook. Levinsky immediately got on his feet and resumed fighting. Levinsky knocked Ferguson down in the eleventh session.

George Alger outclassed "Belgium" Brown in the semi-final bout of eight rounds.

GUERNSEY TAKES LE GORE'S PLACE

MADISON, Sept. 15.—Otis Guernsey, Yale's speedy halfback, has taken Harry Le Gore's place as fullback and the change may prove a permanent one. Guernsey played the position two years ago, but was displaced last Fall by Le Gore.

The change is working well, as Guernsey is already in trim, while Le Gore is still taking it slow.

Another change made was the trial of Bev Thompson at quarterback. He and Bentley divided the position on the first eleven.

Captain Aleck Wilson has not been at quarterback since the squad reported, but has been lining-up as a halfback. Because of the extreme heat the morning practice was shortened.

Scrimmages Held by Navy Candidates

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 15.—Three weeks of steady work have put the big squad of new midshipmen in such excellent shape that the hot weather of the last week has not prevented even short scrimmages. The work has taken on an advanced character. Lieutenant Ingram, head coach, has had as his assistants Hardwick, the crack at Harvard last year; Lieutenant C. E. Smith, who played a brilliant game at quarterback for the Navy some years ago, and Wheatley of Annapolis. Each coach took charge of a full eleven and some signal work was held.

As on every afternoon considerable attention was paid to the forward pass. A number of the backs and ends are handling the ball excellently. The main squad will return on Sept. 20, which gives about two weeks' preparation for the opening game against Georgetown.

Mike Dorizas Joins Penn. Gridiron Squad

PORT DEPOSIT, Md., Sept. 15.—The Pennsylvania football squad, which is beginning its second week of preliminary practice on the Tome School Athletic Field, was strengthened by the arrival of Michael Dorizas, a veteran linesman and guardsman of last year's varsity team.

Dorizas has the distinction of being the heavyweight intercollegiate wrestling champion and is the strongest man in any of the American colleges. He reported for the team weighing 220 pounds.

Dartmouth Squad Is Fattened to Sixty

HANOVER, Sept. 15.—Football practice at Dartmouth is going slow, owing to the heat. Late arrivals have increased the squad to sixty players. The chief problems facing Coach Cavanaugh is the development of capable punters to take the places of Curtis and Whitney, both lost by graduation, and the locating of a good pair of ends.

Captain McAuliffe, Merrill, Pudrith, Baxter and Cotton, all veterans, will undoubtedly be the mainstays of the line.

Holy Cross Squad Works.

WORCESTER, Sept. 15. — Coach Luke Kelley liked the looks of the Holy Cross at its first practice. John Povah, the Boston Latin School star, is on deck and is banked upon to take Cahill's place at tackle. O'Keefe, Cain and Garvey are veterans on the job, while Captain Brawley and Devlin are expected today. Ed Healey, last year's crack end, will not return, but is to enter Dartmouth.

Daly Expects Banner Squad.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Sept. 15.—College opens tomorrow and Coach Daly looks for a squad of at least sixty candidates to report. De Windt, Averton and Garfield are lost to the Williams eleven, it is feared, though Garfield may play later on. Orr, Clifford, Pratt, Van Alystine and Clapp of last year's freshman eleven loom up as nifty lookers.

Barrett Back with Cornell.

ITHACA, Sept. 15—Captain Barrett, Shelton, Anderson, Cool and Collins Cornell heroes who have reported to the coaches. The squad now embraces fifty-four players. Allen and Tilley are two veterans daily expected.

Snodgrass Up On Lines.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Fred Snodgrass will probably be able to get back in the Braves' lineup by Friday or Saturday. He was in uniform and on the coaching lines yesterday, with his injured right hand encased in a bandage. Eight stitches were taken in the wound caused from being spiked by Fisher in Monday's game.

Six-Day Race Passed Up.

Promoter Aleck McLean announces that no six-day bicycle race will be staged in Boston this year.

GATHERED ON SOLDIERS FIELD

THE Harvard football squad reported for its third day's practice this morning at 10 o'clock. The terrific heat of the past two days has raised havoc with the men and they are all praying for a change in the weather. Despite the hot weather the men were not allowed to loaf. Instead they were forced to travel at top speed every minute.

ALTHOUGH the varsity candidates have suffered much from the hot weather, the coaches are also hit hard, harder, in fact, than their charges, for the undergraduates did some football work during the Summer, while the instructors have been taking things easy.

COACH HAUGHTON is very much worried over the appearance of "Ken" Parsons, who played left tackle on the varsity last year. When Parsons reported for practice last Fall he weighed 193, while now he only tips the beam at 168. If Parsons fails to put on some weight he will in all probability be tried out at end. Parsons is tall and rangy and possesses plenty of speed.

TOM ENWRIGHT showed fine form in his punting today, and after about a half hour's instruction with Coach Haughton, the former Exeter star got away a number of excellent kicks. Enwright was also given some practice throwing forward passes. He showed up well at that branch of the game.

JACK BARRY, the second baseman of the Red Sox, who is out of the game because of an injury received in Monday's Chicago battle, was an interested spectator at the Harvard football practice.

AS J. A. Gilman's ankle, sprained about two weeks ago, is not yet in the best of shape, he is helping Bob Storer with the tackles. No man has a better conception of how to play the line than this same Gilman.

WILMOT WHITNEY, the varsity pitcher, is out for football again this Fall. "Whit" appears to be in excellent condition, even at this early date, and says that much of the credit for his fitness should be given to his trip across country to the Fair. He changed fourteen tires in two days on the desert.

JACK BIGELOW appears to have grown too big for centre work. He is a great deal larger than he was last Fall and now that Wallace is out of the game and Soucy has been switched to end, there is a scarcity of centre material. At present M. Wiggin looks like the most likely candidate. "Wig" is very light, but offsets a great deal of this handicap by being a born fighter.

P. H. HARTLEY, who is a transfer from the University of Missouri, is a candidate for the varsity and is a man who will bear watching. Hartley is an end, who came to Harvard with a big reputation, and from the way he handles himself, looks like a real "find."

"DICK" HARTE, who won such a reputation for himself last Spring as a baseball catcher, and who is going to make his first try for the varsity football team this Fall, has failed to put in an appearance. Although no word has been heard from "Dick," he is expected to report before the end of the week.

"TICK" MORGAN, the leader of the 1916 varsity crew, will not be a candidate for the football team. Before the beginning of the season it was rumored that Morgan would take up football, but the navy leader decided to devote all his time to Fall crew work. It is understood Captain Morgan is not going to assume the same attitude at Murray regarding crew men playing football.

ERNIE SOUCY is working out with the ends. He was out of the game most of last season with a bad knee, which he received in the Penn State game, but it is now pronounced O. K., and if there is any man in college who possesses the ability to fill the shoes of "Tack" Hardwick, the former Boston Latin School boy is the one. Soucy is a trifle light at present, but will soon be at his normal weight and primed for a hard season.

H. H. DADMAN, who was on the second squad last season because of the one-year rule, having matriculated at Tufts before going to Harvard, is expected to be a big asset to the Crimson line. Dadman is a tackle and last year showed himself to be one of the best.

R. S. C. KING, who was a substitute halfback last year, will be unable to play with the varsity until he has passed off a condition hanging over his head. King is a fine plunger, a good defensive man and a fair drop kicker.

"BILLY" BOLES, who played quarter back on the 1917 freshman team, but who was ineligible last season, is out for Mal Logan's old position and it is going to take a very high grade general to beat him out. Boles is weighing about 173, and due to a strenuous Summer in the woods of Maine, is already in the best of shape.

SALLY VII. BACK FOR A BIG RACE

One of the final events of the season of 1915 around Massachusetts Bay will be the match race between John L. Cavanaugh's crack thirty-footer Meemer from Quincy and the Sally VII., owned by E. D. Lane of South Boston.

It has been some years since the Sally VII. has done any racing around Eastern waters, but when she was owned in this section the boat was the champion of its class. It is a mahogany boat and since Mr. Lane has owned it the old rig, with an increased sail spread, has been put back. The boat in its recent tryouts has shown exceptional speed.

The two boats will meet next Sunday at Gloucester in a special race that has been arranged for them by members of the Gloucester Yacht Club.

It will be over a good long outside course that will give both boats and skippers a chance to show just what is in them. It is understood that quite a little side money has been placed on both boats.

Mr. Cavanaugh is one of the best-known skippers in the country and no amateur has much "on" him. The Meemer is pretty fast for its type and the race should be fought out to a finish.

Gallant Will Meet White Next Tuesday

Charley White of Chicago and Gilbert Gallant, the Chelsea lightweight, will clash in the feature tussle of twelve rounds at the Atlas A. A. next Tuesday night. It will be White's fifth appearance in Boston this year. In his previous bouts here he knocked out Eddie Murphy, Freddy Yelle and Charley Thomas, while he fought a twelve-round draw with Young Salyor.

The rest of the program is as follows: Howard McRae, Cambridge, vs. "Mickey" Brown, Malden, eight rounds; Mike Crowley, Malden, vs. Young Blades, Woonsocket, six rounds; and "Spider" Murphy, North End, vs. Sam Stearns, Boston, six rounds.

D. MILLER BACK WITH HARVARD SQUAD

In spite of yesterday's terrific heat the Harvard football squad was given two strenuous practice sessions on Soldiers' Field.

The Crimson players suffered far more during the morning workout than they did in the afternoon. The usual routine of work, that of falling on the ball, charging, catching punts and throwing the pigskin, was indulged in in the morning.

The afternoon practice was opened with a long talk by Head Coach Haughton on the proper way to tackle and how to fall on the ball. The "Wizard" went into the most minute details while illustrating to his charges the proper and only way to tackle an opponent and fall on the ball.

SQUAD DOWN TO WORK.

Immediately after the close of the coach's talk the candidates got down to real work.

The ends reported to Frank O'Brien and Gil Brown; the tackles to Gilman and Bob Storer; guards to Stan Penock and Weston; centres to Derrick Parmenter and Reggie Brown; quarterbacks to Mal Logan and Harry Gardner, while Captain Eddie Mahan and "Pooch" Donovan looked after the halfbacks and fullbacks.

After the usual preliminary work the backs were sent down to catch punts, while the linemen had a half hour's set-to with the charging machine. Haughton gave all his attention to the kickers, spending much time with Tom Enwright.

WALLACE IS INELIGIBLE.

All the candidates reporting under weight were sent to the locker building early by Trainer Donovan, and after yesterday's torrid weather there are but few men who are not minus some of the beef they possesseed on the first day of practice.

Although Wallace, the first string centre man last year, made his first appearance on the field yesterday morning, he was not out during the afternoon, and it is stated that he has been declared ineligible.

Dan Miller, who played halfback on the 1916 freshman team, reported for the first time yesterday. He appears to be in excellent shape and will try for one of the open backfield positions.

Male Help Wanted.

ARE YOU THE MAN?
Somebody will sell, drive, repair and store everyone of the hundreds of thousands of automobiles now in service and being turned out. Are you the man?
The automobile industry knows no hard times, seasons or reverses—on it goes, more cars, trucks, cabs and traction engines and more opportunities for thoroughly trained men. Owners know where their money goes—repairs—the great item of expense. Make these yourself and save money.
We teach every branch of the automobile industry except the manufacture of new cars, day and night throughout the year. New day class forms every four weeks—next class September 13. New evening class, every nine weeks—next class October 4. Business men's classes at frequent intervals.
Write for a catalog of the best housed, equipped and taught automobile school in America. Wonderful equipment, every facility for your advancement and protection. Write, call or telephone for full information.

Pianos and Musical Instruments Pianos and Musical Instruments

CHAS. S. NORRIS
Kranich & Bach Pianos, 181 TREMONT STREET

Boston American readers now have the opportunity of a lifetime to secure a good piano or player-piano. Our great will give you the world's best pianos and player-pianos at a price-saving that will astonish you.

HOW WE DO IT

The purpose of this club is to bring together 100 people who want a high-grade piano in their home. If we do this quickly we can sell 100 pianos in a few days instead of weeks. This naturally makes an enormous reduction in our expense per piano—less clerk hire, less selling expense, etc.—because of quick sales. Then we pay the manufacturers spot cash, and they in turn cooperate with us, giving us a BIG cash discount. Every possible cent of expense we eliminate, and all these savings are taken from the selling price, giving you the best standard-make pianos at a price and on terms hitherto thought impossible. Through this wonderful power of co-operation we sell you pianos and player-pianos of the best known makes at a lower price than you could buy elsewhere—and not only that, but also on terms to suit your convenience.

We deliver all pianos promptly — you enjoy your piano while paying for it.

Harvard's Attitude Toward the Jews Is Unexpected and Surprising

Inconvenience of the Examining Staff Is No Proper Ground on Which to Refuse Consideration to the Serious Religious Scruples of a Large and Important Element of the Community

THE officials at Harvard College inadvertently set the date for examinations on the day which is most holy to our Jewish citizens, and on which they are forbidden such labor as the taking of an examination. Other educational institutions happened to make the same mistake.

Thereupon the Jewish societies respectfully and earnestly called the attention of these institutions to the fact and requested either a change in the date of the examinations or permission for the Jews to take a special examination. All the institutions so requested complied, except Harvard University.

Harvard's attitude is unexpected and surprising. It could be based upon nothing more than the inconvenience of the examining staff, and inconvenience is no proper ground on which to refuse consideration to the serious religious scruples of a large, important and growing element of our community.

When such consideration is demanded of a quasi-public institution like Harvard the officials of Harvard University must never forget that they are, in a very large measure, supported out of public taxation, and that it is in deference to semi-public and semi-private institutions like Harvard that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has not established a State college long ago.

By a provision in its charter the State exempted Harvard from taxation, and its officials should be ever mindful that it is not a private business, but is an institution that is, in the language of the Supreme Court of the United States, "clothed with the public interest."

Harvard has been free from criticism of her liberality in matters of religion. Undoubtedly her present attitude was hastily assumed and will be corrected after more mature consideration.

A very large proportion of the students at Harvard are Jews, and that proportion, we understand, has been increasing yearly. They are among the ablest of her scholars. Harvard welcomes them and respects them and will undoubtedly, upon second thought, help them in this situation.

Once-Overs

The man who is worth while is the one who does something for the good of those about him.

He may not have much money, he may not be a leading citizen, he may not be a large contributor to funds which will bring him particular notice. He may be only the plain, everyday fellow who, in a quiet way, gives a lift to the one who is a little worse off than he himself.

A man who works for two dollars a day and gives a meal to an unfortunate is entitled to many times more praise than the man worth half a million who gives half of it to some institution in which he is interested. (This, by the way, is an overdrawn illustration, for millionaires are not giving away half of their fortunes).

The man who treats his family right, pays his debts, and is honest in his dealings, is worth an army of those who get money in stealth and give part of it away in public.

You, in your little house on the street which is called Straight, may be laying up treasure where moth and rust do not corrupt, while your acquaintance on Easy Street may have nothing with which to meet the final accounting.

WOULD MAKE RULERS SUBMIT
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN.

Dear Sir—After the war, what? Most likely a defensive alliance for all the European States will be the outcome of this last great war among them. A certain section of these warring nations, who trusted in the power of might to conquer and rule all the world, as well as the remaining ones who believed only less in the power of arms and armaments, will thus be led to see that the brotherhood of man is the basic principle of all permanent peace.

Awful as is the present experience of Europe, it has probably hastened by hundreds of years the universal acknowledgment and adoption of the principle that right, not might, is the best law for the welfare of nations. Then why prolong (a year's carnage has been decisive of nothing) an unnecessary and useless conflict, that can only result in the exhaustion of these self-same powers and the century-long misery of the great masses of all these peoples?

If a new Hague Conference were to sit continuously until the peoples of these countries compelled their rulers to submit their differences to its decisions, peace might come sooner than any one would imagine. What greater role could America have than to be the first to take this decisive step, and work for it incessantly until its fulfillment came?

LIKES HAWTHORNE ARTICLES
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN.

Dear Sir—I was never so delighted as when I saw the announcement in the AMERICAN of Emerson As I Knew Him, an appreciation by Julian Hawthorne, published in the Boston Sunday AMERICAN.

Such articles and especially coming from a man like Hawthorne will be well worth reading.

We want more of them, of Nathaniel Hawthorne himself, and other lights who blazed the way to intelligence, the pioneers of an Americanism that we might well emulate.

PREPAREDNESS AFTER THE WAR HAD OCCURRED
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN.

Dear Sir—Your recent editorial by Mr. Hearst, entitled: "The Questionable Value of Preparedness for War After the War Has Occurred," should be republished several times. It is a masterpiece of its kind that should be read and re-read by every man and woman in the United States. It is strong; very strong; but it is true; every word of it.

The Mosquito in the City

How He Gets There, Where He Comes from and How to Keep Him Out

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Foremost Writer on Medical Subjects.

MANY as are the penalties which we are supposed to have paid for the pleasures of city life, we have escaped at least four pests by moving in from the open country—mosquitoes, malaria, hookworm and hay fever. When human beings get about as thick on the ground there isn't room for many other "animals" to grow, though plenty of vegetables in the form of disease-bacteria come up to take their place.

One of the reasons why city dwellers are so much fonder of fresh air and sitting out in the open than country people is that they are comparatively safe from being eaten alive by mosquitoes and flies. So that when we find ourselves bitten by mosquitoes in a great city, whether in the comfortable and neighborly publicity of our front steps and park benches, or the safe seclusion of our flat bedrooms, we are not merely annoyed, but feel a sense of resentment and injustice bordering upon outrage. It is bad enough to have to endure blistering pavements and oven-walled streets and dust and smells and gasping nights, but to have to fight mosquitoes on top of all these, just as if we were living in Podunk Corners, is maddening.

The Remedy

In the language of a famous spellman: What are we going to do about it? Fortunately it is our own fault and the gams is entirely in our own hands. Mosquitoes can be as completely exterminated from the vicinity of human dwellings, at least, as wolves, bears, rattlesnakes or other terrors of the open country. The method is of singular simplicity. The little pests are neither to be drowned out, nor stamped out, nor starved out, but dried out—caused to die of thirst in their infancy. The watchword of the war is, KEEP IT DRY, or if you can't keep it dry, keep it covered or kerosened. While the mosquito, as we know him, is a land insect, he is really amphibious. He lives in the air, but is born in the water and can breed only in the water.

Like the Kentucky colonel, he doesn't need water either to drink or to wash in, but the mosquito does need it badly to hatch his eggs in. This law is an absolute one, like those of the Medes and Persians. It is unbreakable and there are no exceptions. No pools, no mosquitoes. It must be clear, visible, wet water, too. Mere mud or low places in the grass, or damp ground under shrubbery or trees will not suffice. There must be water at least an inch deep for the eggs to hatch in and the wigglers, or larvae, to swim in.

Mosquitoes do not grow on trees or in long grass, or on the underside of leaves in shrubbery. Gardens and parks and boulevards furnish no harbor or hatching place for mosquitoes whatever, unless they happen to contain pools, or tubs, or buckets, or puddles of water. It is not even a question of keeping backyards and alleys and vacant lots clean, for mosquitoes will not breed in manure piles or garbage heaps unless the latter contain cans or bottles which fall "rightside up," so that they catch and hold rain water. These are the beast and brothed of flies, but the mosquito is a fastidious and cleanly beast and demands a bathtub in his nursery. Wherever you see the gleam of water go for it and either empty it, drain it, or coat it with kerosene and you have given the death sign to all mosquitoes in that neighborhood.

It is astonishing, almost incredible, how tiny and insignificant and temporary the puddle of water needs to be. A mere wineglassful, even a tablespoonful, is enough, providing it is renewed or supplied by leakage or prevented from evaporating so as to last for three weeks or more, which is the period required for the eggs of the ordinary mosquito or culex to hatch.

The dangerous and rarer varieties that carry malaria, yellow fever or elephantiasis fortunately take nearly twice as long, so that their puddles must be almost permanent pools. Any sort of a shell, cup or can, including tin, the end of a broken bottle, an old rubber boot, a concave piece of tin, iron or broken crockery that can catch rain water or sprinkler spray, and hold a tablespoonful of it for three weeks, will make a perfect Summer cottage and incubator for a mosquito family.

Why They Come to City

Part of our city mosquitoes come from the fact that even in the metropolis we are not yet civilized, that is, clothed enough, and allow water to stand about in puddles on undrained vacant lots or around leaking faucets or waterpipes, or in buckets or water barrels or cisterns. Active and progressive health departments are now making war on these nuisances and serving notices upon all owners of properties where water is allowed to stand, whether on the surface, in the cellars or basements, or subways, to dry up. If this is not done within reasonable time the inspectors take the matter in hand themselves and charge the expenses up to the owner of the property. If this local "Dry Up" campaign were thoroughly carried out we would be rid of one-half or two-thirds of our city mosquitoes.

Another unsuspected source of danger in the city is from cisterns for the collection of rain water. The use of the water of these for either drinking or washing purposes has been forbidden for many years in most of our large cities on account of the smoke, dust and other filth that are washed into them. But not a few of them still remain hidden under a house, or porch, or outbuildings, or concealed by a sidewalk, or flooring or other planking. The mother mosquito has an astonishingly keen nose for such hidden, underground reservoirs, and if the tiniest crack can be found in their covers or walls, delights in working her way into them to lay her eggs, and when these hatch her brood can easily come out through the same chinks through which she went in. For this reason, in addition to the fact they usually become little better than cesspools from the pollutions of city soil, these old nuisances should be not merely closed up and covered over, but have their cavities filled up with soil or gravel.

Another City Evil

Nor are the modern cisterns and water tanks, such as are placed up on the roofs of high buildings for use in case of fire, by any means safe. As these are filled with city or hydrant water, and very few mother mosquitoes fly as high as their breezy altitude, it would seem impossible that they could become inhabited by mosquitoes. But a most ingenious piece of health detective work showed only a few years ago, in New York city, that these mountain-top hydrant-filled reservoirs were swarming with mosquito larvae.

How they got there was an utter puzzle, because when the openings of the cistern were carefully screened scores of mosquitoes were still found hatching from their water under the netting. An examination of the water of the Croton Reservoir near the intake pipe solved the mystery. It had been a hot, dry Summer; all the smaller pools had dried up and millions of mosquitoes had flocked to the Croton Reservoir to lay their eggs. These eggs had been carried through the aqueduct down to the city, pumped through the pipes up to these roof cisterns and there had blossomed out into mosquitoes to make the lives of apartment dwellers a burden to them.

An order was issued that all these cisterns should be thoroughly double-screened, not to keep mother mosquitoes from getting in, but home-grown daughter mosquitoes from getting out, and the city was saved.

While we well know what to do before being bitten, what to do afterward is more a problem for philosophy and religion than for medicine. The damage is done. The nettly-poison is lodged safely under your skin. All that can be done is to possess your soul in such patience as you can. One piece of negative advice may be given: Smash the criminal if you can, swear if you must, rub as hard as you like, but don't scratch! Unless the mosquito happens to be loaded with malaria "bugs." The risk of which is almost infinitesimal in a large city, the only damage that the bite will do is to your feelings, or perhaps to your vanity if it swells unbeautifully. It is itchy to the verge of agony, but it isn't dangerous.

The One Danger

The one and almost only danger is that you may rub or scratch hard enough to break the skin and thus open the way to infection by streptococci, or filth bacteria, from the soil, or dust, or dirty finger nails. Nearly all the pimples, pustules and septic infections of the skin which follow mosquito bites are due to this kind of contamination.

For the immediate relief of the exasperating itching, the end of a portion of soda, or moistening the spot and dusting over powdered alum, or applications of alcohol or 10 per cent. carbolic acid are helpful. If you happen to have at hand a tube of headache balm or neuralgia salve, or any other paste or liquid containing high proportions of menthol, camphor and the like, these are sometimes soothing.

But the poison of the bite is tucked away so safely beneath your waterproof skin that it is out of reach of any surface applications, and the most universal remedy is the old fashioned one of Grin and Bear It. As the worst part of the itching is over in from five to ten minutes, especially if you can avoid rubbing it, this stoic prescription usually works better than it sounds. Like all maladies that yield to the mind cure, it gets better itself, and all you have to do is to Forget It until that happens.

An Entreaty

JUST a moment! Just one moment! Mr. Playwright,
Ere you boil your lunch and hurry to your room
And climb into your pajamas to dash off a bunch of dramas
That shall plunge the world in super-Stygian gloom;
We have had enough of neurasthenic ladies,
Who are making awful hashes of their lives,
And of sour-visaged heroes, with a moral code like Nero's,
Who are always courting other people's wives.

CAN'T you write another bawling melodrama,
Where the villain broke the door down every night
And the maiden shouted "Murder!" till the folks in Chelsea heard 'er,
While the gallery went bughouse with delight?
Can't you add the saving touch of old-time roughhouse,
Where the hero, in a true heroic rage,
When he spots a wicked frame-up picks the lovely, weeping dame up
And boots half a dozen plotters off the stage?

WE have problems in our everyday existence,
And their answers we can never hope to know.
We derive no delectation when we're out for recreation
By their dismal repetition in a show.
Back to action, it will pay you, Mr. Playwright,
Do not shy at scenes that happen to be rough;
It's the real knock-down-and-drag-out gets the old "S. R. O." flag out,
But it's "Dark Next Week" for psychologic stuff!
